

BV

4501

.W477

Class BV 4501

Book .W 477

THE CHRISTIAN LIFE,

MANIFOLD AND ONE.

Cambridge:
PRINTED BY C. J. CLAY, M.A.,
AT THE UNIVERSITY PRESS.

THE CHRISTIAN LIFE,

MANIFOLD AND ONE.

SIX SERMONS PREACHED IN PETERBOROUGH CATHEDRAL,

BY

BROOKE FOSS WESTCOTT, B.D.,
" CANON.

bp. of Durham

London and Cambridge:
MACMILLAN AND CO.

1869.

[All Rights reserved.]

MS. A. 11
H. R. 24

TO THE
VERY REVEREND A. P. SAUNDERS, D.D.,
DEAN,

AND TO THE
VENERABLE ARCHDEACON DAVYS, REV. M. ARGLES,
REV. H. PRATT,
CANONS OF PETERBOROUGH CATHEDRAL,

These Sermons
ARE DEDICATED WITH SINCERE RESPECT AND GRATITUDE.

Exchange
Western Ont. Univ. Library

APR 17 1940

P R E F A C E.

THESE Sermons, the first-fruits of new work, are printed, partly that I may through them ask for the active sympathy of those among whom I have been called to labour, in the discharge of duties which at the present time may, as it seems, be made by God's blessing of peculiar benefit to the English Church; and partly that I may be myself reminded hereafter in times of failure and despondency of the thoughts which were ministered to me in the first Cathedral services in which I was allowed to take part.

This is not the place to discuss measures of Cathedral Reform, but I cannot refrain from repeating what underlies all that I have here said, that the great want of our Church is recognized variety of functions and not uniformity. To parochialize Cathedrals would be to destroy one distinct element in our organization, and to add nothing in its place. What is needed is rather to specialize their office, and to claim for them, in accordance with the statutes of the New Foundation, the prerogative of higher education, that is, theological study in its largest sense and the final professional training of Candidates for Holy Orders. Our Church, as such, has made no provision elsewhere for the fulfilment of these necessary parts of her work. But let it once be recognized that it is the privilege of Cathedral bodies to fulfil them, and our Cathedrals will become, what they ought to be, and may be, the springs of the intellectual religious life of England. 'The which if they 'do,' to quote the preamble of our Statutes, 'we 'verily trust that great increase of piety shall 'come to the kingdom, and those who erected

‘ these churches for the glory of the All-good
‘ and Almighty GOD, and the advancement of ‘ the Christian Faith, and furnished the same
‘ with various orders of Ministers, shall in no
‘ wise be disappointed of their expectation and ‘ desire.’

B. F. W.

HARROW,

Sept. 15, 1869.

THAT it may please Thee to illuminate all Bishops, Priests, and Deacons, with true knowledge and understanding of Thy Word; and that both by their preaching and living they may set it forth and shew it accordingly:

We beseech Thee to hear us, good Lord.

EPIPHANY, 1869.

CONTENTS.

SERMON I.

LIFE CONSECRATED BY THE ASCENSION.

	PAGE
ST LUKE XXIV. 51.—It came to pass, while he blessed them, He was parted from them, and carried up into heaven . . .	1

SERMON II.

MANY GIFTS: ONE SPIRIT.

I COR. XII. 4.—There are diversities of gifts, but the same Spirit . . . . .	15
---	----

SERMON III.

THE GOSPEL OF THE RESURRECTION.

I COR. XV. 11.—Whether it were I or they, so we preach, and so ye believed . . . . .	27
---	----

SERMON IV.

SUFFICIENCY OF GOD.

2 COR. III. 5.—Our sufficiency is of God . . . . .	41
--	----

SERMON V.

ACTION THE TEST OF FAITH.

	PAGE
ST LUKE X. 37.—Go, and do thou likewise . . . . .	51

SERMON VI.

PROGRESS FROM THE CONFESSION OF GOD.

ST LUKE XVII. 15.—One of them when he saw that he was healed turned back, and with a loud voice glorified GOD . . . . .	63
--	----

SERMON I.

LIFE CONSECRATED BY THE ASCENSION.

SERMON I.

LIFE CONSECRATED BY THE ASCENSION.

ST LUKE XXIV. 51.

It came to pass, while He blessed them, He was parted from them, and carried up to heaven.

SUCH was the last scene of the earthly presence of the Lord. So it was that having loved His own which were in the world, He loved them unto the end. Not silently and alone as Enoch, who walked with GOD, and was not, for GOD took him: not with the whirlwind and chariot of fire like Elijah, who was swept away before the eyes of his awestricken follower; but calmly, naturally, as we must think, with words of assurance and in the act of benediction Christ ascended unto His Father and our Father. And this revelation of human life linked to heaven by the Saviour's blessing is that on which we necessarily dwell to-day. Christmas, Easter, and Ascension-tide have each their peculiar lesson of joy, and we must distinguish the lessons if we would apprehend their fulness. Christmas is the festival of the family, for then Christ by being born hallowed all the ties of home. Easter is the festival of the Church, for then Christ by the victory over death established a spiritual power among men, invincible for ever. Ascension-tide is the festival of the race, for then Christ by raising all that belongs to the perfection of humanity to heaven, gave us a glorious sign of our true destiny as men.

This being so, two thoughts out of many which offer themselves may be taken for our consideration now. The Ascension teaches us the consecration of all the parts of life; and it teaches us also the consecration of all the offices of life. Not only is every detail of each individual life impressed with a divine value; but the differences by which any life as a whole is separated from another belong also to the completeness of the divine order. We may reject the gift of GOD: we may mar the beauty which He is ready to perfect: we may mistake the purpose which he is ready to accomplish; but if we look to the Ascension and that last blessing with which Christ's earthly work was consummated, we shall know that all we do and all we are has in possibility,—GOD grant that it may have in deed—a vital relationship with heaven.

In many respects it is a happy circumstance that Ascension-day comes in the middle of our week. It may thus indeed be neglected, but when we observe it, we are led at least to ponder on its meaning. Nor can that meaning be hidden from us ; for it is plainly expressed in the services and in the recreations by which the Festival is marked among us<sup>1</sup>. Here to-day the full joy of work and the full joy of devotion, the hearty gladness of seasonable mirth and the solemn fellowship of divine Communion, meet together in a true harmony. Earth to-day may be seen by us united with heaven, not as in a dream to the sleeping patriarch, but in the open triumph of a Saviour. To-day to the eye of faith angels once again are shewn ascending and descending in ministry to the sons of men.

1. In this then lies the first lesson of which I spoke, the religious unity of life. If we enter into the spirit of Ascension-day, we shall be enabled to realize practically that Christian life is essentially one. Over all the hands of Christ are raised to bless. In Christ the results of thirty years of silent and obscure labour, no less than of three years of recognized ministry, were transfigured and raised aloft for ever. By that last pledge of love, by that last victory of love, a real unity was restored to human existence. Nothing can be clearer than the significance of the fact, but we still need greatly to be reminded of the truth thus made known to us. We are always tempted to break up life into little fractions; to separate routine and effort; to contrast secular and spiritual; to assign this part to the duties of the world and that to the service of GOD. But to-day we may learn that such a division is faithless and vain. As the body is one, so also is the life. Physical health is the harmonious action of every member according to its proper law, and religion is the true health of our whole being.

<sup>1</sup> Ascension Day is observed at Peterborough by an annual meeting of the members of the Cathedral body, the Grammar School, and the Training College.

Such a view of life as this is undoubtedly solemn, but it is also inexpressibly grand. No one would desire deliberately to lower the recognized dignity of action, and we may rejoice when any habitual mode of thought helps us to appreciate it more worthily. Do what we will we know that we must be beset by sorrow and suffering and care. We may for a time close our eyes to their presence, but in the end they will make themselves felt with more crushing power. If however we once see that these also belong to the completeness of our discipline; that through them GOD makes Himself known; that by them that person is fashioned which, by His grace, shall be lifted to heaven;—if we once see that it is in the silent, unnumbered, unnoticed trivialities (as they seem) of daily business that character is formed which in due time a crisis will reveal: then already something of a divine harmony is re-established among the elements which sin has disordered.

---

So it comes to pass that we can by GOD'S blessing draw strength from failure. When we place the seen in its true relation to the unseen, the circumstances of life appear in their true proportion and significance. Whatever is inchoate, imperfect, discordant, becomes a sign of that fuller being into which all our efforts and all our achievements are destined to pass. That only which is wholly of the earth can find its satisfaction on earth; all which belongs essentially to some vaster whole must as yet bear about with it the marks of incompleteness, and to our eyes the appearance of failure. The weaknesses, the littlenesses, the incoherences of daily life, so long as they are felt and struggled with, are evidences of a victory yet to come. They bear witness to us that we cannot rest till we rise to the level of Him in whom we live. They never cease to teach us that the end to which we are called is not now nor here. Moved by their importunate promptings, we must confess that it is not enough to die with Christ: that it is not enough to rise with Christ: we must also ascend with Him even now, 'in heart and mind,'—with the power of feeling and with the power of thought—to the presence of GOD, that so at last we may reflect His glory and be transformed into His likeness.

2. The whole life of a Christian is then, when we view it in the light of Ascension-day, one in its character, in its progress, in its issue. It is also distinct in its function. As the circumstances and faculties of men are permanently different, so the religious office of each, which represents the sum of all his endowments consecrated to an eternal destiny, is necessarily different in form. There is one body but it is composed of many members. There is one life but it is expressed in many ways. Certain as this truth is, we are practically in constant danger of forgetting it. The same spirit which leads us to isolate parts of our life as alone religious, leads us also to construct one type of religious work, so that all action which does not fall within this narrow boundary is left out of account. Thus it necessarily follows that our theories prove unreal; that our conception of religion is impoverished; that our effective energies are lessened by lack of sympathy and by secret misgivings.

But to-day we are raised to a higher platform. Those to whom Christ gave his last blessing, those whom He sent as the Father sent Him, fulfilled their commission not after one pattern but after many. Even in that first outburst of renovated life each believer worked according to his natural gifts. One ministered, another preached, another wrote: one satisfied an immediate want, another laid up treasures for a later time. Every form of service was hallowed, because all were rendered to GOD. And this is the image of Christian activity which we are at present called to imitate according to the measure of our power. In this way only can we gain a true sense of the worth of the individual life, when it is seen to contribute its distinct share to the manifold richness of the total sum. In this way only can we realize in any degree what is that Body of Christ which, while it finds in Him its perfect unity, is extended and sustained by that which every part supplies, to complete its beauty or to harmonize its action. If we were all alike in our highest attributes, if religion were in all the same exercise of the same gifts, then the defection of one or another would make little difference to the general result; but if, as we see it must be, the faithlessness of one subtracts from the whole that which no other can supply, all is changed; we feel at once the overwhelming majesty of life even in its ultimate details: we feel that we can never be alone and confine to ourselves the issues of our actions: we feel that in us, in each of us and in our common duties, the highest well-being of humanity is imperilled.

---

Such thoughts as these, which flow naturally from the celebration of Ascension-day, seem to have a special fitness for ourselves. Elsewhere it might be difficult to enter into the conception of the religious unity of life. Elsewhere it might be difficult to see how different groups in society act and react upon one another and contribute to the fulness of beneficent service. But our Cathedral life is so ordered as to bring these ideas practically home to us. Here our daily services so fall into our common work as necessarily to give, so far as they are real, a religious character to all we do. Here our parts in a corporate society are so clearly marked out that we can never forget how much we depend one upon another for the adequate fulfilment of the general office with which we are charged. Here are concentrated, as we see to-day, the representative spiritual powers which are organized to meet the wants of every section of the Church. Here in a word we cannot but recognize that our whole life, if it be true to its idea, must be religious. Here we cannot but recognize that each one of us has some task to fulfil which no one else can fulfil, and which is destined in its fulness not for himself but for others.

If the opportunity be given me I hope to speak hereafter more at length of the ennobling and cheering thoughts which spring from the consideration of the complex constitution of our Cathedral body. At present I can barely indicate what seems to be its central conception as brought out by the services of to-day. It is strength in coöperation, strength in the consecration to one end of manifold gifts, strength in religious fellowship. How greatly we need such strength is evident from all around us. No one can have reflected on the position of our national church without feeling that its chief peril lies in the isolation of its constituent parts; and this defect is the more dangerous because it springs from our national character. Thus we find a tendency to separation personally, in our religious feelings, and paro-chially, in our religious organization<sup>1</sup>. There is among us a want of sympathy and a want of combination. We do not trust others with our highest aspirations: we do not look to others to carry on and complete what we have begun or partially apprehended. Now it is not too much to say that (as I believe myself most profoundly) a Cathedral like our own furnishes exactly those elements of varied and yet converging energy which may by GOD'S blessing form a spring of harmonious activity throughout the Church; powerful by the influence of a disciplined dependence, elevating by the presence of a divine aim. Our gathering here to-day interprets my words and confirms them. By our school we are brought into the closest contact with those who will be the head and heart of our city population; by our College with the great masses which it is the first privilege of the Church to quicken and raise; by our clergy, with the pioneers of thought and speculation, which it is their office to make tributary to the glory of the Truth. To labour in these manifold functions, to inspire them by the power of sacrifice, to harmonize them by the spirit of a divine life, to strive towards the union of tasks and classes, is the mission to which we are called. The work is for our country and we come to GOD through Christ for strength to fulfil it: the work is for our generation, and we bind it to the past by our meeting in this grand temple which is itself the monument of twelve centuries of Christian triumphs.

<sup>1</sup> The relation of the Cathedral body to the Parish is admirably marked out by Mr Beresford Hope in his English Cathedral of the XIXth Century.

Such a view of our common work is, I admit, a lofty one, but it is not chimerical. The stirring times in which we are privileged to live call for heroic efforts, but I know that the efforts will not be unavailing. They call for faith and truth, but it is on these foundations that all great results must rest. They call for unselfish and unreserved co-operation of class with class, and rank with rank, but it is through mutual dependence that our personal powers are most operative. They call for self-denial and discipline, but so it is alone that we can learn what is the peace of perfect freedom. They call for trustful love for man, for loving trust in GOD, but it is by love that the heart of man is opened, and by trust that the help of GOD is won. The very dangers which seem imminent rouse us to a sublimer faith. Human weakness is the vantage-ground of divine strength; and to-day we consecrate our aspirations by looking to the ascending Saviour.

May GOD grant that that vision may not soon fade from our sight. May it rather be for us too the pledge of transfigured life. Let us only carry its teaching to our several works; let us see in it the divine pledge that life in its eternal aspect is one and manifold; and it must be so. If only each scholar will cherish as he learns the thought of his fellowship with the religious work centred here, and afterwards carry the thought with him through the business of his life: if only each teacher who goes from among us will keep alive in the isolation of his laborious duties the sense of sympathy with those who share his trials and supplement his toils: if only each priest in silent study and public ministration will remember the countless workers whose manifold services it is his high commission to bring to the throne of GOD: if only each one of us will now join in one intense prayer for sympathy and communion; it will be given us to know as we have never yet known the majesty and power of our life in Christ. Without me, the Lord has said, ye can do nothing. Through Him, all things are possible to him that believeth. May we all—may I in the prospect of new work—rest in the fulness of that boundless promise. May we all—may I in the fulfilment of new work—find ever, as on this Ascension-day, the Risen Christ to give His blessing.

Peterborough,

ASCENSION-DAY, 1869.

SERMON II.

MANY GIFTS: ONE SPIRIT.

SERMON II.

MANY GIFTS: ONE SPIRIT.

I COR. XII. 4.

There are diversities of gifts, but the same Spirit.

IF we try to picture to ourselves the earliest forms of life we shall see at once that they are distinguished from that with which we are familiar now by a strange simplicity. There is little intercourse between men, and little sympathy. Their wants are few and for the most part such as they can satisfy by their own direct effort. For them the idea of humanity is limited by the extent of their tribe: the idea of the universe by the iron circle of the sky. Step by step fresh mysteries of being, fresh possibilities of action, are opened before them. The stranger is no longer synonymous with 'the enemy' or 'the barbarian.' The margin of the world fades before the inquirer who would reach its boundary. Experience reveals within the heart deep wants which social trust and social love alone can satisfy. Class is linked to class and race to race by inseparable bonds. The various functions of teaching and production and distribution are almost indefinitely subdivided. A single detail is found to be sufficient for the labour of a life-time. All the offices and duties of men become inextricably complicated, till at length, as the least consideration will shew, in all we do, and in all we enjoy, we depend at present, consciously or unconsciously, on the ministration and sympathy of countless fellow-workers and fellow-feelers whom yet we can never know here face to face. There is something very sublime and at the same time very awful in the thought of this marvellous complexity of our modern life, even in its outward aspects; and if we penetrate below the surface and come to feel that the same law holds in the spiritual as in the material relations of men, we shall readily acknowledge that we are in the presence of a truth which it concerns us most nearly to apprehend as far as we can do so. If religion be the most complete harmony of life with the seen and the unseen, the modes in which it will be embodied will vary with the varying modes of life. It also will necessarily exhibit, like the visible life of which it is the soul, a development, a progressive subdivision of parts, a mutual dependence of action, issuing in a mightier and fuller energy. At the same time it will be exposed to the peril of conventionality, to the peril of isolation, to the peril of indifference. All the causes which tend to stereotype or separate or narrow our lives, tend equally to stereotype and separate and narrow our religion. And, if, on the other hand, we see that by the counsel of the Divine Love the highest forms of earthly good spring from the co-operation of the most diverse elements, so we believe is it also in religion. Here too the distinctness of our special work, however small, is a condition of the perfection of a whole which we cannot yet imagine. Here too the fulfilment of our peculiar office is the pledge of the efficacy of the divine life of which we have been made partakers. Here too the full majesty of our redeemed nature is seen in the glory of that august spiritual Body of Christ in which we are all incorporated.

---

It is in the light of such reflections as these that we can understand the words of St Paul which we have heard this morning, There are diversities of gifts, but the same Spirit. There is an essential difference in all lives, and there is in them also, by the gift of GOD, an essential unity. There is a difference in them because there is a unity; because, that is, they are not bounded by that which falls under our present notice, which is fragmentary, imperfect, half-suppressed, but pass on to the more immediate presence of GOD, where all that has been blessed by His Spirit coexists in absolute harmony and power.

These then are the two thoughts which I wish now to commend to you. There are among us diversities of gifts; and these gifts belong to the same Spirit. St Paul is speaking, it is true, of special gifts while he is writing to an exceptional society, but we may rightly generalize his words when we refer them to a Christian state. And thus interpreted they have a direct application to ourselves.

1. In our ordinary life, as I have already indicated, we fully recognize the law of progressive variety. It is indeed forced upon us by all the conditions under which we act and think. It is called into play equally by the natural endowments with which we are born, and by the circumstances under which we use our powers. It is the spring of all that is most impressive in national character: it is the spring of all that is most energetic in personal influence. A great people stamps the history of the world with the impress of its special traits. A great man sways his fellows by the gifts through which he differs from them. There is nothing from which a true patriot would shrink more than from the endeavour to obliterate the marks which represent in his countrymen all the issues of the past. They may be transformed, ennobled, transfigured, but in them lies the pledge that the nation has still something to do for the race. Remove the difference, slender it may be, by which citizen is distinguished from citizen, and something is lost to the fulness of the body which nothing can replace. External equality is uniform degradation.

But while this principle is acknowledged unhesitatingly in social and political life, we do not commonly apply it to religious life. Religion is regarded as something abstract, uniform, colourless. Here it is supposed that the rich variety of function which marks the development of man finds no place. He is unclothed, to use St Paul's image, and not clothed upon, that so he may fulfil his highest work. We suddenly abandon the law which has guided the magnificent growth of life when it approaches its last fulfilment. We trust to no generous spontaneity when we come as sons to our heavenly Father. We painfully mould and repress ourselves after one fashion; and enemies say, not without the semblance of excuse, that our religion looks traditional, formal, dead, powerless to claim all human interests for its domain, all human faculties for its instruments. And still if we reflect that what we are called upon to offer to God is nothing less than ourselves, our souls and bodies, it must at once be seen that in that perfect, holy, living sacrifice is included every element of character, of endowment, of circumstance, by which each one of us is made to differ from others. Thus it is that not only as men, or as citizens, or as members of families, but as believers in Christ, we have severally a definite and personal work to do, for which we have received in our powers and in our positions the requisite equipment. Only let us be faithful to the ministry which we have received, without attempting to estimate its value or measure its efficacy : only let us be sure that religion is the consecration of our whole nature and not the special attribute of any one part, of it : only let us come to GOD such as we are, bowed down it may be with the burden of toil and care, without the opportunity, as it seems, of preparing an offering for His acceptance : and He will welcome and purify and hallow all that we lay before Him. But so far as we fall short of this : so far as we set apart any section of our interests and our energies as foreign to our religion : so far as we aim at satisfying an artificial standard of emotion or belief which answers to nothing within us : so far also we lessen the total sum of Christian powers and impoverish the fulness of that life to which we are called to contribute. Other offices may appear to us to be more fruitful than our own : we may wish for an ampler field on which to shew the devotion which we sincerely feel : our time, we may argue, is so engrossed by necessary routine that all nobler aspirations are dulled. But if followed to their spring such thoughts come simply from faithlessness and impatience. They may rise to tempt us till the sure answer comes that we are in the hands of GOD, who has given us our place. For us it is enough to keep it. We see but a part while He sees all Differences which to our eyes are enormous vanish in His presence. The results of silent service, of complete self-surrender, of patient trust, cannot be measured by our present experience. They survive us on earth and they follow us before the very throne of heaven.

---

We are called then in Christ to bring to GOD our whole selves. This and nothing less than this is our rational service. And if so our religion will be as manifold and as personal as our lives, active now through this gift, now through that, and hallowing with the cross all that is truly human.

2. But underneath this infinite variety, this intense individuality of religion, so to speak, there lies the one common Spirit which combines all the separate parts into a harmonious whole. We work each in our own way with untiring and truthful effort, and because we do so, and just so far as we do so, a higher unity is possible. There can be no unity in an aggregate of similar atoms. Thus we are brought to our second point. Our diversity of gifts is reconciled in one supreme destination.

All the images under which the religious life is figured bear witness to this its twofold character. The power and beauty of the Christian society are always shewn to us in manifold subordination. At one time we are taught to regard it as a temple reared through long ages, each stone of which fills its special place and contributes its share to the grace and stability of the fabric. At another time as a vine, where by the complicated and delicate machinery of Providence earth and air and water are fashioned into leaf and flower and fruit. At another time as a body, where a royal will directs and disciplines and uses the functions of every member. At another time as a vast army, where each soldier trained and strengthened acts no longer for himself, but even to absolute self-sacrifice submits to the sovereign control of his leader. It is impossible to mistake the meaning of such images, which teach us our mutual dependence in every aspect. We are dependent on the past which determines our relative positions. We are dependent on the present which supplies the materials for our action and the law by which we can appropriate and employ them. We are dependent even on the future which may require that we perish, as some forlorn-hope, to ensure the triumph of those who shall come after us. This, I say, is clear if we practically realize what Holy Scripture teaches us; and not less clear is it in Whom mutual dependence is brought to unity. Christ is the Corner Stone on which the whole temple rests. Christ is the Root from which the vine draws its vital energy. Christ is the Head from which the body receives its divine impulse. Christ is the great Captain by whom through toil and suffering and loss the army is led to victory at the last. We are all different and therefore we may be one. We are all united in Christ and therefore, unless we are unfaithful, we must be one.

It would be easy to pursue these reflections into detail, to point out in special cases the variety of gifts with which GOD has blessed us, to shew how they are joined together so as to produce in due course nobler issues otherwise unattainable. But I prefer to leave them in their broad and simple form. Each one can tell for himself what he has and what he is: each one can tell whether he strives to render all to the glory of GOD. In the meantime enough, I think, has been said if we take the thoughts to our hearts, to guard us against the dangers of unreality, of isolation, of indifference in religion which seem peculiarly urgent now. If it be true, and who can doubt that it is true, that religion is the divine soul of the whole of each separate life; that something has been given to every man, more or less in human judgment, whereby a special duty is marked out for his fulfilment; that all we do passes at once out of our reach to influence others for all time; we shall strive ever more and more earnestly by GOD'S help to realize in some degree the ideal which we see before us. While we labour to consecrate our whole life we shall not hastily adopt any conventional mode of marking our purpose, but wait for the Spirit to embody itself in its true form. While we cultivate to the utmost the special gifts which we have received, we shall not be content till we have referred them to their social end, from which alone they derive their proper dignity. While we refuse to compare office with office, and service with service, knowing how little we see and that little how imperfectly, we shall never forget that it is to Christ each act of the Christian life is rendered, in His sight, by His power, in obedience to His will. Doubtless we shall fall short often and sadly of the standard which we have set up, but our failure will be not without hope. We shall know, know with an ever-increasing assurance, that all life must be eternal and may be divine, and look humbly and trustfully to that Spirit from whom comes our rich diversity of gifts that He may strengthen us to use them rightly to His glory.

---

Peterborough,

TENTH SUNDAY AFTER TRINITY, 1869.

SERMON III.

THE GOSPEL OF THE RESURRECTION.

Good, practical, spiritual, suggestive

April 5th 1888.
April 3rd 1891.

1. To harmonize life - make it one
2. To inspire life - in routine
3. To transform life - preparation for heaven

SERMON III.

THE GOSPEL OF THE RESURRECTION.

I COR. XV. 11.

Whether it were I or they, so we preach, and so ye believed.

LAST Sunday I endeavoured to point out some of the broad religious lessons which are forced upon us by the conditions of modern life. I endeavoured to shew that the law of progressive variety which confessedly applies to all our material interests, applies also to our spiritual activity: that our religion finds its true expression in the consecration of our special gifts: that there is no human faculty which may not by GOD's help be made an instrument of divine service: that there is no one believer in Christ whose ministry will not contribute to the effectual energy of that august body of which we have all been made members. I endeavoured to shew that all our natural endowments, all our personal histories, all our con-trusted circumstances are so many opportunities for peculiar work; and thus to encourage every one to offer to GOD that which he has and is, in the sure trust that every gift and every power will be ennobled in the offering, and made to subserve to the heavenly cause to which our lives are pledged.

The epistle of to-day, from which my text is taken, sets forth how, being the frail, sinful creatures that we feel ourselves to be, we can yet cherish these glorious aspirations, and rest assured, even in the midst of failure, that they are not vain. In that Gospel, as the Apostle calls it, of Christ's Death and Christ's Resurrection we stand; by that we are saved. It accompanies us from the beginning of our lives to the end. It is the voice which welcomes the unconscious infant to his Saviour's love: it is the voice which commits the unconscious dead to his Maker's keeping. It is the full satisfaction of one of the deepest instincts of our nature. As men we must look heavenward; but as believers in Christ that died, yea rather that is risen again, even now our conversation is in heaven.

This then is the thought which I have chosen for our meditation this morning, the belief in Christ's Resurrection as influencing the Christian's life. The subject is at all times a practical one, for if GOD in His great love enables us to realize in any way more personally what is the power of that belief, He will teach us also to convert the fresh knowledge into deed; and however rich our experience may be, however near we may have felt Christ, however tenderly we may have been drawn to Him, we can never exhaust the fresh spring of that apostolic gospel. It is therefore well, as occasion offers, to go back to the first principles of our faith. The message of the Resurrection which the Apostles were charged to proclaim has lost none of its significance, but we, I think, perplexed by the necessary growth of later thoughts, are often in danger of missing the grandeur of its simple outline. At least the unnatural barriers of separation which we all fix in various degrees between parts of our duties and our pleasures: the conventional banishment of our highest desires from ordinary intercourse: the unreal triviality which first veils and then smothers passionate longings for sympathy: the sense of weakness which drives us in upon ourselves: the sense of weariness which forces us again to frivolity; shew that we have not yet fully learnt the lessons which it can teach, or the strength which it can give; for the faith in the Resurrection can harmonize life: can inspire life: can transform life.

1. The faith in the Resurrection of Christ can harmonize life. Whenever we pause to think what our lives are, they must seem for the most part to be a strange patchwork. Very much appears to be done for us, over which we have little or no control: very much is determined by the necessary routine of our daily occupations: very much is fashioned by the current opinions of those among whom we are thrown. And these great sections are brought together more or less by aspirations, by resolves, by acts, through which we witness however imperfectly to the stirrings of GOD'S Spirit within us. But if we rest here, we have not known the power of Christ's Resurrection. Though comparatively little may be left to us to determine by our arbitrary choice,—and I think that we do not commonly reflect how little it is: though body and mind, wearied with urgent occupations, fail to fulfil the desires which we sincerely entertain: though we indulge in honest fancies of what we would do if other circumstances were granted us; still in the light of the Resurrection those very hindrances, those burdens, those little gifts are seen to fashion and equip the several members of Christ. It is in each case the distinct person who has received that imperious bias from the past, who is hemmed in by those peculiar cares and toils, who is entrusted with that one poor talent, it may be, to save whom Christ died. The whole life is one (we must reiterate the truth) just as the whole man is one. At any moment we represent in ourselves the entire sum of the past which we have gone through—of influences from without, and of impulses from within, of the deeds which we have done and of the thoughts in which we have indulged—and just so far as these admitted at first the presence of Christ, so far also will they be made to bear the image of His glory:

Creeds

Society

so far even now do they form parts of a true harmony.

If we consider for a few moments in all reverence the earthly life of the Lord we shall perhaps grasp more firmly the idea which I wish to convey. That life, we all know, was absolutely perfect, absolutely harmonious, absolutely one, and still in its outward conditions it was not essentially different from our own. Christ was born poor. He was subject to His parents. Step by step He increased in wisdom and stature and in favour with God and man. Till the appointed hour came for a brief ministry, He continued for thirty years in silence and labour. His time, like our own was, to outward sight, occupied with routine. He who had come to save the world was known to his neighbours as the carpenter. The record contains a virtue which we cannot misunderstand. Christ lived that humble life to shew us that all life is potentially divine. The various forms of life do not differ in their inherent capacity for spiritual progress, but in the opportunities for its manifestation; and if we look to Christ, He will bring to one the manifold fragments out of which our lives are built, even as He bore to heaven after He rose from the dead the fruits of that long time of obscure and common toil, no less than of His active ministry, united in His perfect manhood.

2. Thus it is that for us faith in the Resurrection of Christ harmonizes life. It can also inspire it. The Christian lives, according to the impressive words of Holy Scripture, in Christ. It is from Christ that he draws his energy by vital union: it is as a member of Christ that he fulfils his part in the great economy of the world. By his faith in GOD Incarnate and man ascended he stands forth as a witness of the essential unity of the seen and the unseen, of earth and heaven; and there never was a time when it was more necessary to proclaim this truth than it is now. There is about us on every side, in the midst of much that is simply ostentatious and false and selfish, a restless striving for the truth, a stern impatience of hypocrisy, an eager desire to do something to raise the masses of men to their proper dignity. And in the meantime popular religion seems to stand aside from these great stirrings of national life. Adversaries even venture to urge that Christianity is, at least in certain aspects, hostile to truth, to sincerity, to freedom. The sphere of its action and its hopes is said to be transferred by tacit consent to a remote region, inaccessible even to the imagination. So true it is that at first we neglect our gifts, and then we deny them.

There is need then that a fresh spirit should be breathed through our common life to shew not only that the whole may be truly divine, but that every part in it contains some spiritual capacity and power. And if we go back to the simplest elements of our faith we shall see at once whence it must come, and what is the fallacy which lies at the root of all reasoning which tends to divorce religion from any human interest. Our first prayer teaches us to ask not that we may be transferred into the kingdom of GOD, but that the kingdom of GOD may come among us. And conformably with this the whole life of the Christian is rightly spent in the effort to see more of GOD in His Word and in His works, and to make Him seen more clearly by others. We are placed, as it were, in the presence of a veiled glory. The practised eye can habitually pierce beneath the covering, and even we of duller vision come to feel, first perhaps in seasons of darkness, the reality of its effulgence. In a word heaven is not for us so much a 'yonder' towards which we have to move, as a 'here' which we have to realize. It lies about us, even as we live and move and have our being in GOD, though often we know it not. While we work and wait and watch, now this bright glimpse now that is given; and it is due to our own faithlessness if every spot in which we are set does not become to us like the stony desert to the fugitive patriarch, a Beth-el, a very gate of heaven.

Doubtless it is hard to endure as seeing the invisible, but when the spiritual eye grows dim, the thought of Christ risen in Whom we are, will remove the mists which cloud them. If once we realize what these words 'we are in Christ' mean, we shall know that beneath the surface of life lie depths which we cannot fathom, full alike of mystery and hope. The very fact that Christ lived and lives with the fulness of His perfect manhood is sufficient to enable us to appreciate the possibilities of our being. Everything that is human catches a brightness from that supreme light: everything that is transient is found to be charged with an abiding issue by contact with that eternal Truth.

heaven
here

3. The faith in the Resurrection of Christ can then inspire life. Once again it can transform it. We have seen that our nature, our personality, is a result of complicated forces and yet is indivisible. If we try to form a distinct conception of what we call vaguely our soul, we shall find that we include in the idea all the details of circumstance and action and feeling and thought, which go to make up that which we feel to be ourselves. If we attempt to leave out any part, however small, even in the remote past, the present result is changed. The acts and the words of our childhood, nay, the acts and the words of our parents, bear ever fresh fruit in us. And as far as we can look forward, wherever we can represent ourselves as living still, under every conceivable change of circumstance and organization and faculty, we are forced to regard this manifold result as still continuing. Where it ceases we too cease: where it fails we too are maimed and imperfect.

This inevitable conclusion is very solemn. At first sight, and without Christ, it is overwhelming. We know each how, as life goes on, its stream grows stained and turbid. Dark memories from distant years

man product
of the past.

come unbidden and mingle with its current. We cannot stay the source once opened. And for the infinite future, is there then no release, no restoration, no purifying power? Must we for ever carry with us not only the impress of the past, but that ever-springing fount of sorrow, if not of sin, which lies in the bitter recollection of good neglected or evil done? The answer comes to us from the cross and from the sepulchre. Beloved, now are we the sons of God, and it doth not yet appear what we shall be: but we know that, when He shall appear, we shall be like Him; for we shall see Him as He is. The open vision of GOD in Christ will then transform us into His image. By that the most amazing miracle of Divine love and Divine power will be consummated, the complete forgiveness of sin crowned by the transfiguration of the sinner; and in the mean while to look for that, to prepare for that, as far as we may do, to treasure up such glimpses of that ineffable glory as may be shewn to us, to carry with us throughout our whole work the recollection of the Risen Saviour, is the profession to which we are pledged, the mission to which we are called, the strength with which we are clothed.

To repeat then what has been said, the belief in the Resurrection of Christ harmonizes life, inspires life, transforms life. The words are lofty words, and if for us they are words only they bear with them the sad condemnation of a noble ideal recognized and abandoned. But, my friends, I cannot think that we shall rest contented with the possibility of such an issue. To make of life one harmonious whole, to realize the invisible, to anticipate the transfiguring majesty of the Divine Presence, is all that is worth living for. What life is, as we see its outward form in the vain shadow of earth, the lesson of the last two days may teach us. Suddenly, without time for special preparation or parting counsel, one<sup>1</sup> of our own body passed almost at once from the fulfilment of his daily ministry to helpless unconsciousness, from unconsciousness to his final rest; but by a most touching coincidence the last words which he accompanied in this Cathedral<sup>2</sup> express, as we trust, his last prayer and his last confession, and breathe comfort beyond any words of man: Lo! this is our GOD, we have waited for Him, and He will save us: this is the LORD, we have waited for Him, we will be glad and rejoice in His salvation. I cannot, as a stranger, speak with fit judgment of his services, but I know that they were long, that they were faithful, that they were zealous; and I know that work so done by the grace of GOD, follows him who has been enabled to do it, to bear fruit beyond all that we can imagine, and that the memory of it survives to be a silent power for good among those who shall come after. Death, after earthly duty loyally, humbly, patiently

<sup>1</sup> Mr John Speechly, organist of Peterborough Cathedral from 1836, died suddenly August 7, 1869.

<sup>2</sup> The last words of the anthem at evening service on August 5.

end of life

---

fulfilled, is not the end but the beginning of life. That is the Gospel of the Resurrection to which our thoughts have been turned this morning; and may GOD in His great mercy grant to us all to know, as our hope is our brother knew, not in word but in power, the Gospel which we preach and ye believed, the Gospel of Christ's Passion and Christ's Triumph.

---

Peterborough,

ELEVENTH SUNDAY AFTER TRINITY, 1869.

SERMON IV.

SUFFICIENCY OF GOD.

SERMON IV.

SUFFICIENCY OF GOD.

2 COR. III. 5.

Our sufficiency is of God.

THESE words of St Paul which occur in the Epistle for the day carry forward the thoughts with which we have been occupied in part on the two last Sundays. We have seen the manifoldness of the materials which are given into the hands of the Christian to use in the service of GOD : we have seen the harmonizing, inspiring, transforming power of the Christian faith. But when we fall back from the earnest longing for a consecrated life to the littlenesses and distractions and failures of each passing day : when we contrast the power of our creed, as an ideal, with the actual effect which it produces upon our habitual manner of acting and judging :—it is impossible that we should not be filled with a profound distrust of ourselves. We are tempted to declare, in the bitterness of disappointment, that after all the vision of a life moulded into one whole, and animated by one Spirit, was but a dream; that we cannot realize the Life and Passion and Resurrection of the Lord as certain truths which must colour the whole stream of our existence. And indeed so it must be, so long as we look at ourselves. In that contemplation of self lies weakness without the prospect of support; failure without the promise of redemption. But if it be well that we should learn by sad experience what we cannot do by our own power, still, to rest in this knowledge of despair is to renounce our birthright. Discomfiture and defeat are means by which GOD draws us closer to Himself. Each fresh discovery of our helplessness, if we use the opportunity, reveals to us at the same time a present source of succour. We are alone, as it may seem, or few, or powerless, in the midst of the world, which moves on its way with irresistible force: we are beset and baffled by circumstances which lie wholly without our control: we dishonour and discredit by our faint-heartedness the name which it is our privilege to bear; yet even so, in isolation, in failure, in dejection, only let the thought of self perish, and we shall know that we are not desolate: our sufficiency is of God.

St Paul when he used these words originally was speaking of the ministers of Christ, and it is in this relation that we must first consider them; but we may also extend their application further to those secondary ministries of life and thought to which every believer is devoted. The ordinances of the Christian society, the conduct of the Christian life, the confession of the Christian faith, all alike derive their sufficiency from GOD. Looked at in themselves, they may seem poor and unmeaning and foolish, but when referred to their Divine spring, and thereby seen in their proper majesty, they become a power of GOD and a wisdom of GOD.

I. This is true in the first place of the ordinances of public worship, the institutions of the Christian society. It is perhaps very natural that we should regard these according to the sensible effect which they are calculated to produce upon our feelings, and thus remotely upon our actions. We can see, for example, that a particular exercise of devotion is likely to move us deeply, and forthwith we set an immoderate value upon it: another may appear dull and uninteresting, and though it may be providentially commended to us, we unreasonably neglect it. Everyone's experience will furnish him with examples of what I describe. We disregard too frequently the public and social aspects of religion. We crave to follow out each step in the process by which we are individually to be made like to GOD, and judge beforehand the direction in which the steps must be made. Perhaps even we grow restless and dissatisfied, and murmur that privileges are withheld from us which others enjoy. Doubtless it is by such stirrings as these that provision is made for progress in the Church, but the part of reformers is reserved for few, and for them it is encompassed with peril. To the mass of us meanwhile it may be a lesson of inestimable comfort that we are not left to an uncertain caprice in the choice of the means by which we shall publicly approach GOD. Let us then forget ourselves when we meet together, and think of Him only, and He will assuredly make Himself felt. The dullest sermon at least offers a fragment of His word. The loneliest service is at least rendered in His immediate presence. There is a danger, and I should be most unwilling to underrate it, of coming to regard outward acts of worship as inherently meritorious, but there is a danger to which we appear commonly to be more liable, of neglecting to look for any blessing from Divine ordinances apart from the emotion of which we are ourselves conscious. The whole system of public worship is, if I may so speak, sacramental. Not only does it rest on the two Sacraments as its essential basis, but each part is a symbol of a spiritual antitype and fitted to be the channel of a spiritual grace. We meet here not as kinsmen, not as friends, not as outwardly bound together by ties of dependence or duty, but simply as members of Christ whom He has called to work in His Body. It is then impossible not to acknowledge that in this relation we may look for peculiar blessings when once we feel that each service is a function of a spiritual life. If in humble and faithful expectation we lay ourselves open to the Divine influence, as we do to the air and the sunshine, not attempting to define too curiously how it quickens us: if we who teach sink ourselves utterly in the message with which we are charged and the ministry which we have to fulfil: if you who hear look beyond the voice and the instrument to Him whose love is so brought near to you: if all come together in this place prepared to receive and not to create, to offer themselves and to find life and access of life: then we shall understand by fellowship with the Author of all strength what it is to confess and to know that our sufficiency is of GOD.

---

2. The ordinances of public worship in this way force us to think on our common spiritual life. Unless they are regarded in this light they have no distinguishing mark. The special blessings which they bring, as we feel upon the least reflection, come from GOD and must be sought from GOD; and faith is soon content to wait upon His will. But in the active ministry of life it is more difficult to learn the same lesson. Here where we seem to trace the course and the issues of actions more plainly, we are apt to continue more hasty and impatient and discontented. It is very hard to realize the vitality of effort. It is very hard to labour as believing that he who plants can rarely see the rich fruitage of the tree. It is very hard to refrain from measuring ourselves by ourselves and claiming our reward before men. We complain—whose conscience does not accuse him—that we have toiled in vain. We say bitterly that we may fold our hands and rest, for no deliverance is wrought by us. We forget the harvest reaped from others' labours while we murmur that the seed which we have cast upon the ground remains long hidden. And all this is because we do not firmly grasp the truth that in all we do our sufficiency is of God. What we have is from Him : what we do is for Him. As soon as we really feel this we shall not be strong only, but strong in quietness. We shall be afraid to anticipate the results of devoted service, but rather commit them to His keeping in whose hand are we and our works.

To many the saying whatsoever is not of faith is sin has seemed exaggerated, the command pray without ceasing impossible ; and yet both, I believe, must be applied literally to life. Every part of life cannot but have a connexion with that unseen world by which we are surrounded. To realize this connexion is faith ; to seek fellowship with its King through Christ is prayer. And just so far as we limit our purposes and desires by the visible and the temporal, we miss our true aim, we sin. Just so far as we claim no heavenly guidance and support, the clearest sight of the beauty of the eternal order is simply a vision of condemnation. And if this be so, or rather since this is so : while that heavenly light can stream over the occupations of our daily business : while that heavenly communion can be made vital by lifting the soul upward in the momentary acknowledgment of GOD'S Presence; shall we not be satisfied to do calmly and for eternity that which we find prepared for us, knowing that all so done must work its proper work, unflattered by success and undisturbed by failure, because our sufficiency is of GOD?

3. Such a view of life, infinitely noble as it is, naturally comes, as we have already seen, from a belief in the first elements of the Christian Creed. But who has not trembled often at the contrast between the words of our profession and the type of life with which we are satisfied? It seems as if it were impossible to embrace in simple sincerity the true import of the awful facts to which our Christian name bears witness. The more our conceptions of the universe are widened the harder it seems to be to realize that the Maker of all took our nature upon Him and died for us and bore our transfigured nature to heaven. Faith becomes more difficult in proportion as our need of it becomes greater. Yet even here the text speaks comfort. It raises us above ourselves: it points to the beginnings of faith in the love of GOD: it recognizes the cöoperation of our will, but traces all our strength to a Divine source. No man, it is written elsewhere, can say that Jesus is the Lord but by the Holy Ghost. To be ready then to declare that we do believe that Christ died and rose again for us: to welcome the new bond which the gospel establishes among all men: to wait even with dim eye and dull ear for the coming of the kingdom of heaven:

is for us a sign that the Spirit is active within us. We may still feel difficulties which no intellectual effort can wholly remove: we may still find natural impulses urging us to selfish indulgence: we may still be cumbered with much serving when Christ is waiting to speak to us; but it is enough if we have learnt our weakness: it is enough if we can lift the cry which was once powerful against the might of evil: Lord, I believe; help Thou mine unbelief: it is enough if we look beyond ourselves for the confirmation of our faith, and know that our sufficiency is of God.

To sum up all then very briefly, the losing of self in the supreme thought of GOD is the secret of our power as Christians. In this spirit it is that we are taught to frequent the services which Christ has ordained, waiting devoutly for the blessing which He is ready to give.

In this spirit it is that we are taught to offer to Him our lives, in the sure trust that He will consecrate them to the eventual ministry of His Church.

In this spirit it is that we are taught to come before Him with our faltering confession, knowing that in due time He will confirm it by the witness of personal experience.

So may we be enabled in devotion, in action, in belief, to know ever more certainly that our sufficiency is of God.

Peterborough,

TWELFTH SUNDAY AFTER TRINITY, 1869.

SERMON V.

ACTION THE TEST OF FAITH.

SERMON V.

ACTION THE TEST OF FAITH.

ST LUKE X. 37.

Go, and do thou likewise.

THERE is no one among us who is not familiar with the story of the good Samaritan which we have heard again this morning as the Gospel of the day. There is no one in whose heart its deep lesson of love does not find a clear response. But in this as in all other narratives of Holy Scripture there is a freshness which no acquaintance deadens: a fulness of meaning which no single experience exhausts. As we change ourselves, the details appear in new combinations: as we view them in altered lights, they become radiant with unexpected brightness.

Thus the circumstances with which the parable is connected by St Luke bring it into a significant relation with the topics which have been presented to us on the last three Sundays. If at that time the Lord could thank His Father that the mysteries of redemption were revealed to babes, the thanksgiving applies to us who have learnt that spiritual service lies in the consecration of simplest duties. If at that time He could pronounce His disciples blessed, because their eyes saw and their ears heard what was not made known to prophets and kings, the blessing belongs still more to us for whom each day makes clearer the manifold glories of the Gospel of the Resurrection. If at that time the student of the Law, who had rightly penetrated to its meaning and sought by deeds to inherit life, required to be placed face to face with an ideal This do and thou shalt live, felt to be alike true and unattainable, the lesson is no less for us who hardly learn by disappointment and disaster that our sufficiency is of GOD.

Moreover the parable itself has a close application to ourselves. If as yet we have advanced no further we may hope that we have all at least reached the position which the lawyer had gained. Like him we have an adequate theoretic knowledge of the faith in which we have been born. Like him we are, I assume, honestly desirous to turn our theory into practice, even if we are tempted to attach an inordinate value to our works. Like him, I do not doubt, we are often ready to justify ourselves when we are confronted by claims which we are unwilling to satisfy. For us then, no less than for him, the story of the Good Samaritan has its peculiar lessons.

It tells us that we are to carry our intellectual knowledge of religion into the actual conduct of life: it tells us that humanity is the only limit which GOD has placed to the ministries of love: it tells us that opportunity is the test of character: it tells us, not indeed with stern irony to earn life by a perfect obedience, but to manifest the life which Christ has given us in the faithful endeavour to fulfil the noblest instincts of our nature. May GOD grant that we may listen to the lessons, and as He gives us strength, obey them.

I. A pure Creed is indeed an inestimable blessing. No greater privilege is given to men than to be able to advance in the knowledge of Divine things, to learn by slow and patient thought how truth is set against truth, and all the various lines of revelation in the words and works of GOD converge to one great unity. He who has carefully reflected on what he professes to believe, and pierced to the spirit of his faith, like the lawyer in the parable, has gained a vantage-ground for action. But knowledge is only a vantage-ground and not a victory. If we neglect to turn to use the superiority which it gives us, our defeat will only be the more disgraceful because we were so richly furnished for the battle. Religious truth cannot be of the intellect only. It must, if it be held vitally, shew itself in life.

What then is the practical power of our peculiar faith? How is our conduct directly influenced by what we hold as Christians, or as members of the English Church? How do the special articles of our belief move us to exertion when we are tempted to indolence? how do they discipline us to self-restraint when we are tempted to pleasure? how do they ennoble with a Divine dignity the trivial details of our daily business? how do they gather into one supreme sacrifice the manifold services in which we are engaged? They can do this, and if they do not according to the measure of our infirmity, I fear that we cannot be said, in any true sense, to believe at all.

If we take the simplest examples my meaning will be most evident. Can any one, for instance, sincerely believe that GOD the Father made the world, and not regard all creation, even in what we call its lowest forms, with a devout reverence? Here too there are marvels of love and wisdom, partly veiled and partly open, before which we must check all wantonness and wilful caprice. Can any one sincerely believe that GOD the Son redeemed all mankind, and not feel his soul stirred within him towards those who as yet have known no tidings of the Gospel? Here too there are around us in the ignorant and the outcast those for whom Christ died, to whom we are privileged to commend our faith by the tender offices of charity. Can any one sincerely believe that GOD the Holy Ghost sanctifieth all the elect people of GOD, and be content to drag on a life of poor frivolity without claiming for it the glory of transfiguration?

Here too there are occasions and faculties and impulses which the Spirit is waiting to convert into springs of blessing.

Such questions, which rise out of the first elements of our Creed, must help us to feel what a gap lies between our confession in words and our confession in acts. And if we pass on to the characteristics of our own branch of the Church, how few among us look upon these as fresh motives, fresh instruments for labour, which are given not to minister to our pride but to fit us for our appointed task! Yet is it nothing that a temple like this in which we are gathered reminds us of the splendours of our inheritance? Is it nothing that we claim to represent the national Christianity of England by direct succession from the earliest times? Is it nothing that our Catholic Church has never been permanently compressed within any partial mould of truth, but has been able at all times to bring forth from its treasures things new and old, to satisfy the wants of all who come to it for support and guidance? Nay rather in all these things there are unexhausted sources of strength. But we, in our faithlessness, divorce theory from life, and forget that each advantage becomes for us a more effective motive for energy, and that the superior purity and completeness of our faith must, if it be real, manifest itself in increased power of action.

2. At this point, however, I can imagine that we, like the lawyer, may inquire in genuine perplexity, where we are to find scope for this practical energy of faith. To him the answer was given in an inverted form. He asked who was his neighbour. He was told to consider who acted as a neighbour. And in this inversion lies a deep truth. It is one of the necessities of our imperfect lives that we fence ourselves round with prejudices and tastes and party sympathies. We are unconsciously narrowed in our real apprehension of the fellowship of men. We require to be pointed to deeds of heroism and devotion in those from whom we are most widely separated in order that we may actually feel the bond of the common nature which underlies every difference of class and creed. When we doubt to whom we must shew love in the strength of our Christian faith our eyes are directed, it may be, to one who denies it, who yet by his works shews that he is moved by the love of purity and the love of truth, which we draw from an unfailling source.

The thought is one on which it is well to dwell in times like our own, when sharp intellectual differences are found on all sides combined with common zeal for the removal of definite evils. Our faith, let us remember, is not opposed to the truest instincts of humanity, but rather makes their fulfilment possible. If, as I believe, what is called Natural Theology has no substantial basis, man is naturally religious, and the Gospel furnishes him with motives sufficiently powerful to overcome the temptations of selfishness, and hopes sufficiently strong to support him through the long delays which separate the seed-time and the harvest. The Christian differs from the patriot and the philanthropist not so much in the immediate ends which he seeks as in the impulses by which he is moved to seek them. If his aims are always wider and more far-reaching, they are forced upon him by convictions infinitely more persuasive. A spiritual Samaritan, a stranger that is, or even an enemy to our faith, may first open to us our duties, but then we shall confess with shame that we were already pledged to the fulfilment of those offices of charity by the neglect of which we have brought discredit on our name.

---

3. And this reflection brings me to the last point in the parable which I wish to notice. No example can shew more clearly that opportunity is the test of character. We may be sure that countless little acts of cowardice and self-seeking had hardened the priest and the Levite against the final claim made upon their devotion. We may be sure that countless tender services of unquestioning love had prepared the Samaritan to imperil himself in the hope of saving an alien. They had not contemplated desertion so disgraceful: he had not set before himself devotion so complete. But when the crisis came it revealed the accumulated results of a long, slow growth in selfishness and sacrifice: it revealed the intrinsic hollowness of a life hitherto holy in the sight of men: it revealed the fatal difference between a true faith dissociated from faithful action, and instinctive piety loyally obeyed.

And as it was of old time, so it is now. It must in the end be disastrous to cherish a creed which finds no expression of its characteristics in our lives. The Christian will pause from time to time to satisfy himself that he does, by GOD'S grace, work in the spirit and by the help of his faith. It is always easy to find excuses for good undone and evil done ; but each excuse accepted removes our faith farther away from the sphere of life and weakens the motives by which it prompts us to action. Those who left the wounded man to perish could doubtless have awakened compassion in others by describing the extremity of their own peril. The dying traveller would have become simply an incident in their story. Such a version of the occurrence would, we must confess, have seemed plausible. It is only by the contrast that we feel the baseness with which ministers of GOD betrayed their trust. It is only by the appeal to instinct that we can fitly condemn their degeneracy from their creed. And when we apply the test to ourselves, when we compare what our faith enables us to accomplish and what our humanity claims from us, with what we actually effect, we shall be ready to take the condemnation to ourselves. Some men who have been and are most active in reforming our criminals, in elevating our poor, in purifying the methods of government, in ennobling the aims of national policy, are without the all-constraining belief in the Gospel which we hold. We ought to be stronger and more active than they. If we are not our Christianity must be passing into a form. Thus we shall find in every record of self-sacrifice an imperious call to us as Christians to test the reality of our belief. In every golden deed by which GOD reveals the possible nobility of man we shall hear His clear command: Go and do thou likewise. Go and do thou likewise: faith in Christ furnishes thee with a motive of irresistible force: faith in Christ furnishes thee with an instrument of inexhaustible strength.

---

Peterborough,

THIRTEENTH SUNDAY AFTER TRINITY, 1869.

SERMON VI.

PROGRESS FROM THE CONFESSION OF GOD.

SERMON VI.

PROGRESS FROM THE CONFESSION OF GOD.

ST LUKE XVII. 15.

One of them when he saw that he was healed turned back, and with a loud voice glorified God.

WE were led last Sunday Morning to consider the right interpretation which the heart of man gives to the Divine truth of our common brotherhood ; to see in the action of a Samaritan a luminous commentary on the Law of which he was held to be the enemy ; and so to ask ourselves very humbly what practical use we make of the special treasures of faith and discipline which are committed to our keeping, not for theory but for life. In the person of an alien the Lord then set before us the type of our duty to man. To-day he sets before us again in the person of an alien the type of our duty to GOD. The coincidence is not to be overlooked. It is as if He would teach us among other things this great lesson, that instinct ratifies the Gospel, and forces us to recognize in the deeds of strangers to our covenant the principles which ought to be the necessary spring of all we do or think. It is as if he would teach us that the human soul, when it is true to itself, strives upwards, and that our Christian faith makes the fulfilment of its aspirations not only possible but natural. And though the miracle of the ten lepers is less familiar to us and less pathetic than that parable of the Good Samaritan, the details of the history add singular force to its central teaching.

A common misery, we read, had brought together men who otherwise had no dealings with one another. As lepers the Jew and the Samaritan were equal. In distant isolation they confessed their common uncleanness afar off. They lifted up one voice of prayer. They received one testing command. All alike proved faithful under this trial, and all alike were cleansed. Then appeared the difference which lay deep in their inmost souls, deeper even than the springs of faith. One—one only of the ten—when he saw that he was healed turned back, and with a loud voice glorified God and fell down at [Jesus'] feet, giving Him thanks; and he was a Samaritan. In that generous devotion, which formalists would call disobedience, we seem to see the spontaneous nobility of his true manhood. He could not fulfil the letter of the injunction which had been imposed upon him till he had satisfied its spirit. He could not claim from the priest the witness of purity till he had openly acknowledged the magnitude of the blessing which he had received. He could not make the prescribed offering in the Temple of GOD, till he had rendered grateful worship to Him in whom he had found the Presence of GOD. An imperious voice within him called him to an immediate service. To that all other claims must yield. The delay indeed was but for a moment. From the lips of Christ he heard at once that his heart had interpreted rightly the will of his Saviour; and then he was charged in new strength to complete the interrupted duty: Arise, go thy way: thy faith hath saved thee.

What then, we may ask, did he gain more than his fellows? They too were made whole even as he. He too was commanded to leave Christ even as they. The answer is near at hand. They found the blessing, but he found the spring of blessing. They experienced the action of life, but he reached to the soul of life. They remained what they were, devout Jews, it may have been; but he welcomed in his soul the revelation of the power of faith. He had seen GOD: he had given glory to GOD: he had moved others to look for GOD by the confession of his own experience: for him all things were become new.

And for us, my brethren, the essential circumstances of the narrative are realized every day. GOD is ever cleansing, strengthening, blessing us through Christ, like those ten lepers. And for our part we are not slow to render to Him the prescribed service of decent devotion; but how few there are among us who pause to recognize His personal love and presence in the act of mercy to themselves: to tell courageously what things He has done for their souls: to stir others by opening the sources of their own joy. And so it is that our Christian life seems to be so poor, so fragmentary, so undiffusive, that many question whether it has any longer more than a traditional existence, while it is unable to interpret, and combine, and fertilize, the materials of thought and action with which we are called upon to deal. If however we can pierce to the spirit of to-day's Gospel: if we can make our own that which the one Samaritan gained over and above his restoration by his public adoration of the Lord, then I believe that all will be changed. Life will become not a prayer only but a psalm of thanksgiving, uniting at every point the visible and the invisible in hope and in accomplishment. But to this end, like him, we must see GOD: we must give glory to GOD: we must confess GOD openly before men.

I. We must see GOD. It is true that in GOD we live and move and have our being, and still very commonly we do not see Him. There is a wonderful saying of one of the greatest of the Greek philosophers, which will help to explain my meaning. Strangers had come from a distance to render him their homage and profit by his wisdom. On their arrival they found him engaged in the humblest of domestic labours. Ashamed to surprise him in what seemed to them a menial service, unworthy of a great master, they would have withdrawn unnoticed; but he recalled them by a word which laid open the divine mystery of life. 'Enter,' he said, 'for there are gods also here.' Yes, my friends, there are gods also here: that is the thought which explains and ennobles our trials. A little more keenness of sight, a little more quickness of ear, and we might become conscious of the divine powers by which we are encircled. For us doubtless the point of that saying of Heraclitus is concentrated in a way which he could not have imagined by the coming of the Lord Jesus Christ; but still even in its old shape it may be of use to us. It is an incalculable blessing to be able to pause at any moment and say 'GOD is also here': it is an incalculable blessing to pause and say it. All our habits of thinking and planning tend to remove the idea of GOD far away from us. We become familiar with so many modes of applying and transforming force and life, that we are in danger of forgetting that we do not create them. Yet it matters not how many links in the great chain of sequence we may be able to distinguish and follow: they do not help us to dispense with a beginning. And Faith knows that that beginning is GOD, even our Father.

---

The effort thus to see GOD about us is, I say, of the highest practical moment. There is no one here perhaps who has not known the value of the thought Thou GOD seest me, but this 'seeing GOD' of which I speak is something more. That is a safeguard but this is strength: that keeps us from doing but this arms us to do: that suggests the presence of a Judge but this the presence of a Redeemer. And in the common details of life it is this, the conviction of the nearness of GOD to help us, which we want above all things. We pray languidly, expecting little: we take the gifts and the trials which come to us for the most part as a matter of course: we are like 'the nine' who made their petition and received their answer, without actually knowing that the petition was addressed to a present GOD, and that the answer came directly from Him. But when the better way is opened let us boldly enter upon it, and claim, like the Samaritan, to see the personal love of GOD in the action of His Providence.

2. If we see GOD we shall then, in the next place, be ready to give Him glory. It does indeed appear to be an amazing thing that man can give glory to GOD, so that it be acceptable to Him. The fact points to some deep harmony of creation which we are as yet wholly unable to comprehend. Here all human analogies fail us; and still we know that we can magnify the honour of GOD, not as though He needed anything, but as if He rejoiced in the free devotion of His creatures. For ourselves however we can see more clearly what privileges are included in this power of giving glory to GOD. It assures us that we have fellowship with Him; and that our true work is His. There must be some likeness of nature, or the tribute would be impossible. There must be some community of purpose, or we should not rejoice instinctively in the thought of the Divine omnipotence. And as we exercise the powers which enable us thus to realize a Divine communion they become insensibly more pervading and more energetic. Whoever has cultivated the habit of looking to GOD and praising Him will have found growing up within himself the vital consciousness of a present Saviour by Whose strength and for Whom he is working. He will have learnt not to be impatient of results, for he knows that we see but little of that which can be seen even on earth, and that the end is not here. He will have ceased to trouble himself as to what GOD gives him to do, for he feels that the work of GOD is one, and that all faithful labour contributes to its fulfilment. He will have rested in the assurance that what he is allowed to do is of moment only as one test of what he is enabled to be, for he sees that the influences of life propagate themselves in countless incalculable ways. He will have penetrated to the secret of unfailing strength; for in reply to each fresh acknowledgment of Divine mercy he will find borne in upon his soul, as the revelation of the law of life, thy faith hath saved thee.

3. In the mean time he will have recognized also that his sense of GOD'S goodness has imposed upon him duties towards his fellow-men. The Samaritan when he saw that he was healed, turned back and with a loud voice glorified God. It was not enough then that his gratitude should be real; it was to be open too. And this brings us to the last point which I wished to notice. In that open confession which Christ blessed lies a lesson which we need greatly. There is, I think, nothing sadder in the world than the waste of Christian influence. From one cause or another we shrink from the responsibility of avowing our deepest convictions. Partly it is from the fear of ostentation and singularity, partly from self-distrust and sincere humility, partly from more unworthy motives. But from whatever cause it may be, by so doing, we wrong our friends. We leave unspoken the word which might have cheered or guided or turned them. By our coldness we suffer them to remain in doubt whether GOD has visited us. If the heart be full, men argue, its feelings will find utterance. If the Christian creed be accepted as the Truth, it cannot but colour the whole life of the believer. Not to speak then of our highest hopes, not to talk, one with another, of what, as we trust, GOD has done and will do for us, is to cast discredit on our name. When that is at stake we may well forget ourselves. It was strange and presumptuous, no doubt, in the one Samaritan to turn back alone. The ignominy of his descent exposed his boldness to yet severer criticism. But none the less his boldness was welcomed with a blessing. He was strengthened himself by his confession, and he strengthened others. And so will it be with us. No one, I fancy, has ever ventured to cast aside his religious reserve without meeting with sympathy for which he had not looked, and gaining courage from the sense of spiritual fellowship. How can it be otherwise? It is not of ourselves we speak but of GOD whom we have seen. It is not our own honour which we look for, but the glory of our Father which is in heaven. It is not of any special prerogative we make boast, but of a blessing which is offered as the common heritage of men; for Christ is the propitiation for our sins: and not for ours only but for the sins of the whole world. So may we all see Him as our Redeemer and our Strength: so may we give Him glory: so may we confess Him before men!

Peterborough,

FOURTEENTH SUNDAY AFTER TRINITY, 1869.

CANON WESTCOTT'S WORKS.

---

A GENERAL VIEW OF THE HISTORY OF
THE ENGLISH BIBLE. Crown 8vo., 10s. 6d.

AN INTRODUCTION TO THE STUDY OF
THE FOUR GOSPELS. New and Revised Edition, Crown
8vo., 10s. 6d.

A HISTORY OF THE CANON OF THE
NEW TESTAMENT during the FIRST FOUR CENTU-RIES. Third Edition in the Press.

THE BIBLE IN THE CHURCH. A Popular
Account of the Collection and Reception of the Holy Scriptures in the Christian Churches. New Edition, Fcap. 8vo., 4s. 6d.

THE GOSPEL OF THE RESURRECTION:
Thoughts on its relation to Reason and History. New Edition, Fcap. 8vo., 4s. 6d.

MACMILLAN & CO., LONDON.

WORKS BY

THE REV. J. B. LIGHTFOOT, D.D.,

Regius Professor of Divinity in the University of Cambridge.

---

S. CLEMENT OF ROME. The Two Epistles to the Corinthians. A Revised Text, with Notes and Introduction, 8vo., 8s. 6d.

ST PAUL'S EPISTLE TO THE GALATIANS. A Revised Text, with Introduction, Notes and Dissertations. Third Edition, 8vo., 12s.

ST PAUL'S EPISTLE TO THE PHILIPPIANS. A Revised Text, with Introduction, Notes and Dissertations. Second Edition, 8vo., 12s.

MACMILLAN & CO., LONDON.

December, 1881.

A CATALOGUE of THEOLOGICAL BOOKS,

Published by

MACMILLAN AND CO.

Bedford Street, Strand, London, W.C.

---

Abbott (Rev. E. A.)—Works by the Rev. E. A. ABBOTT, D.D., Head Master of the City of London School :

BIBLE LESSONS. Second Edition. Crown 8vo. 4s. 6d.

“Wise, suggestive, and really profound initiation into religious thought.”

—Guardian. The Bishop of St. David’s, in his speech at the Education Conference at Abergwilly, says he thinks “nobody could read them without being the better for them himself, and being also able to see how this difficult duty of imparting a sound religious education may be effected.”

THE GOOD VOICES: A Child’s Guide to the Bible.

With upwards of 50 Illustrations. Crown 8vo, cloth gilt. 5s.

“It would not be easy to combine simplicity with fulness and depth of meaning more successfully than Mr. Abbott has done.”—Spectator. The Times says—“Mr. Abbott writes with clearness, simplicity, and the deepest religious feeling.”

CAMBRIDGE SERMONS PREACHED BEFORE THE UNIVERSITY. Second Edition. 8vo. 6s.

OXFORD SERMONS PREACHED BEFORE THE UNIVERSITY. 8vo. 7s. 6d.

THROUGH NATURE TO CHRIST; or, The Ascent of Worship through Illusion to the Truth. 8vo. 12s. 6d.

“The beauty of its style, its tender feeling, and its perfect sympathy, the originality and suggestiveness of many of its thoughts, would of themselves go far to recommend it. But far besides these, it has a certain value in its bold, comprehensive, trenchant method of apology, and in the adroitness with which it turns the flank of the many modern fallacies that caricature in order to condemn Christianity.”—Church Quarterly Review.

Ainger (Rev. Alfred).—SERMONS PREACHED IN THE TEMPLE CHURCH. By the Rev. ALFRED AINGER, M.A. of Trinity Hall, Cambridge, Reader at the Temple Church. Extra fcap. 8vo. 6s.

“It is,” the British Quarterly says, “the fresh unconventional talk of a clear independent thinker, addressed to a congregation of thinkers . . . Thoughtful men will be greatly charmed by this little volume."

Arnold.—Works by MATTHEW ARNOLD :

A BIBLE READING FOR SCHOOLS. THE GREAT PROPHECY OF ISRAEL'S RESTORATION (Isaiah, Chapters 40—66). Arranged and Edited for Young Learners. By MATTHEW ARNOLD, D.C.L. Third Edition. 18mo. 1s.

The Times says—“Whatever may be the fate of this little book in Government Schools, there can be no doubt that it will be found excellently calculated to further instruction in Biblical literature in any school into which it may be introduced.

ISAIAH XL.—LXVI., with the Shorter Prophecies allied to it. Arranged and Edited with Notes. Crown 8vo. 5s.

Bather.—ON SOME MINISTERIAL DUTIES; CATECHISING, PREACHING, &c. Charges by the late Archdeacon BATHER. Edited, with Preface, by Dr. C. J. VAUGHAN. Extra fcap. 8vo. 4s. 6d.

Bernard.—THE PROGRESS OF DOCTRINE IN THE NEW TESTAMENT. By THOMAS D. BERNARD, M.A., Rector of Walcot and Canon of Wells. Third and Cheaper Edition. Crown 8vo. 5s. (Bampton Lectures for 1864.)

Binney.—A SECOND SERIES OF SERMONS. By THOMAS BINNEY, D.D. Edited with Biographical and Critical Sketch, by the Rev. HENRY ALLON, D.D. With Portrait of Dr. Binney engraved by JEENS. 8vo. 12s.

Birks.—Works by T. R. BIRKS, M.A., Professor of Moral Philosophy, Cambridge :

THE DIFFICULTIES OF BELIEF in connection with the Creation and the Fall, Redemption and Judgment. Second Edition, enlarged. Crown 8vo. 5s.

AN ESSAY ON THE RIGHT ESTIMATION OF MS. EVIDENCE IN THE TEXT OF THE NEW TESTAMENT. Crown 8vo. 3s. 6d.

COMMENTARY ON THE BOOK OF ISAIAH, Critical, Historical, and Prophetical; including a Revised English Translation. With Introduction and Appendices on the Nature of Scripture Prophecy, the Life and Times of Isaiah, the Genuineness of the Later Prophecies, the Structure and History of the whole Book, the Assyrian History in Isaiah's Days, and various Difficult Passages. Second Edition, revised. 8vo. 12s. 6d.

BIRKS (Prof.)—continued.

SUPERNATURAL REVELATION; or, First Principles of Moral Theology. 8vo. 8s.

Blackie.—LAY SERMONS. By JOHN STUART BLACKIE, Professor of Greek in the University of Edinburgh. Crown 8vo. 6s.

The subjects of these "Sermons," so called as the author tells us "because, though some of them were delivered in the form of popular lectures, they have all a direct practical drift, and are intended either to apply Christian ethics or to expound Christian doctrine in reference to matters of special interest at the present time."—are as follows: (1) The Creation of the World, (2) The Jewish Sabbath and the Christian Lord's Day, (3) Faith, (4) The Utilisation of Evil, (5) Landlords and Land-laws, (6) The Politics of Christianity, (7) The Dignity of Labour, (8) The Scottish Covenanters, (9) On Symbolism, Ceremonialism, Formalism, and the New Creature; with an Appendix on The Metaphysics of Genesis I.

Bradby.—SERMONS PREACHED AT HAILEYBURY. By E. H. BRADBY, M.A., Master. 8vo. 10s. 6d.

Brooks.—THE CANDLE OF THE LORD, AND OTHER SERMONS. By the Rev. PHILLIPS BROOKS, Rector of Trinity Church, Boston. Crown 8vo. 6s.

Mr. Brooks' reputation as a preacher stands very high among his own countrymen, and several of his previous volumes which have found their way across the Atlantic, such as Lectures on Preaching, &c., have attracted attention here. It may be hoped, therefore, that this new volume will be welcome to English readers. The first sermon, which gives its title to the volume, was delivered in Westminster Abbey, and was greatly admired by Dean Stanley who was a personal friend of the preacher.

Brunton.—THE BIBLE AND SCIENCE. By T. LAUDER BRUNTON, M.D., D.Sc., F.R.S., etc. With Illustrations. Crown 8vo. 10s. 6d.

The objects of the present work are to give a brief and popular sketch of the data on which the doctrine of Evolution is founded, and to shew that instead of being atheistic it is the very reverse, and is no more opposed to the Biblical account of the Creation than those geological doctrines regarding the structure and formation of the earth's crust which were once regarded as heretical and dangerous, but are now to be found in every class-book, and are taught in every school. The plan adopted has been to give a brief account, first, of the living things both animal and vegetable which now exist on this earth, and of their relation to one another; and, secondly, of the forms of life which existed in the early ages of the world's history, and their relationships to one another, as well as to those of the present day. After this follows a discussion of the question, how these various forms of life, past and present, came into existence, whether by sudden creation or gradual evolution.

Butcher.—THE ECCLESIASTICAL CALENDAR; its Theory and Construction. By SAMUEL BUTCHER, D.D., late Bishop of Meath. 4to. 14s.

Butler (Rev. G.)—Works by the Rev. GEORGE BUTLER, M.A., Principal of Liverpool College :

FAMILY PRAYERS. Crown 8vo. 5s.

SERMONS PREACHED in CHELTENHAM COLLEGE CHAPEL. Crown 8vo. 7s. 6d.

Butler (Rev. H. M.)—SERMONS PREACHED in the CHAPEL OF HARROW SCHOOL. By H. MONTAGU BUTLER, Head Master. Crown 8vo. 7s. 6d.

“These sermons are adapted for every household. There is nothing more striking than the excellent good sense with which they are imbued.”
—Spectator.

A SECOND SERIES. Crown 8vo. 7s. 6d.

“Excellent specimens of what sermons should be—plain, direct, practical, pervaded by the true spirit of the Gospel, and holding up lofty aims before the minds of the young.”—Athenæum.

Butler (Rev. W. Archer)—Works by the Rev. WILLIAM ARCHER BUTLER, M.A., late Professor of Moral Philosophy in the University of Dublin :

SERMONS, DOCTRINAL AND PRACTICAL. Edited, with a Memoir of the Author's Life, by THOMAS WOODWARD, Dean of Down. With Portrait. Ninth Edition. 8vo. 8s.

A SECOND SERIES OF SERMONS. Edited by J. A. JEREMIE, D.D., Dean of Lincoln. Seventh Edition. 8vo. 7s.

LETTERS ON ROMANISM, in reply to Dr. Newman's 'Essay on Development.' Edited by the Dean of Down. Second Edition, revised by Archdeacon HARDWICK. 8vo. 10s. 6d.

These Letters contain an exhaustive criticism of Dr. Newman's famous 'Essay on the Development of Christian Doctrine.' “A work which ought to be in the Library of every student of Divinity.”—BP. ST. DAVID'S.

Calderwood.—Works by HENRY CALDERWOOD, LL.D., Professor of Moral Philosophy in the University of Edinburgh :

CALDERWOOD (Dr.)—continued.

THE PARABLES OF OUR LORD, interpreted in view of their relations to each other. Crown 8vo. 6s.

"They are written in a simple intelligible manner, and may be read with satisfaction."—Westminster Review.

THE RELATIONS OF SCIENCE AND RELIGION. Being the Morse Lecture, 1880, connected with Union Theological Seminary, New York. Crown 8vo. 5s.

Cambridge Lent Sermons, 1864.—Sermons preached during Lent, 1864, in Great St. Mary's Church, Cambridge. By the Right Rev. the Lord Bishop of Oxford, Rev. H. P. Liddon, Rev. T. L. Claughton, Rev. J. R. Woodford, Rev. Dr. Goulburn, Very Rev. Dean Hook, Rev. W. J. Butler, and others. Crown 8vo. 7s. 6d.

Campbell.—Works by JOHN M'LEOD CAMPBELL :

THE NATURE OF THE ATONEMENT AND ITS RELATION TO REMISSION OF SINS AND ETERNAL LIFE. Fourth and Cheaper Edition. Crown 8vo. 6s.

"Among the first theological treatises of this generation."—Guardian.

"One of the most remarkable theological books ever written."—Times.

CHRIST THE BREAD OF LIFE. An Attempt to give a profitable direction to the present occupation of Thought with Romanism. Second Edition, greatly enlarged. Crown 8vo. 4s. 6d.

"Deserves the most attentive study by all who interest themselves in the predominant religious controversy of the day."—Spectator.

REMINISCENCES AND REFLECTIONS, referring to his Early Ministry in the Parish of Row, 1825—31. Edited with an Introductory Narrative by his Son, DONALD CAMPBELL, M.A., Chaplain of King's College, London. Crown 8vo. 7s. 6d.

"We recommend this book cordially to all who are interested in the great cause of religious reformation."—Times. "There is a thoroughness and depth, as well as a practical earnestness, in his grasp of each truth on which he dilates, which make his reflections very valuable."—Literary Churchman.

THOUGHTS ON REVELATION, with Special Reference to the Present Time. Second Edition. Crown 8vo. 5s.

RESPONSIBILITY FOR THE GIFT OF ETERNAL LIFE. Compiled by permission of the late J. M'LEOD CAMPBELL, D.D., from Sermons preached chiefly at Row in 1829—31. Crown 8vo. 5s.

Campbell (Lewis).—SOME ASPECTS OF THE CHRISTIAN IDEAL. Sermons by the Rev. L. CAMPBELL, M.A., LL.D., Professor of Greek in the University of Glasgow. Crown 8vo. 6s.

Canterbury.—Works by ARCHIBALD CAMPBELL, Archbishop of Canterbury :

THE CHURCH OF THE FUTURE. Its Catholicity ; its Conflict with the Atheist ; its Conflict with the Deist ; its Conflict with the Rationalist ; its Dogmatic Teaching ; Practical Councils for its Work ; its Cathedrals. Constituting the Charge delivered at his Third Quadrennial Visitation, A.D. 1880. Second Edition. Crown 8vo. 3s. 6d.

THE PRESENT POSITION OF THE CHURCH OF ENGLAND. Seven Addresses delivered to the Clergy and Churchwardens of his Diocese, as his Charge, at his Primary Visitation, 1872. Third Edition. 8vo. 3s. 6d.

SOME THOUGHTS ON THE DUTIES OF THE ESTABLISHED CHURCH OF ENGLAND AS A NATIONAL CHURCH. Seven Addresses delivered at his Second Visitation. 8vo. 4s. 6d.

Cellarius.—A NEW ANALOGY BETWEEN REVEALED RELIGION AND THE COURSE AND CONSTITUTION OF NATURE. By CELLARIUS. Crown 8vo. 6s.

The argument from Analogy, as first applied by Butler, being, so far as regards its method, of eternal value and significance, there seems no reason why it may not once more be employed to combat the present state of mental incredulity and indifference, due care being taken to adapt the course and details of the argument to the changes which lapse of time and alterations in the way of thinking have produced in the attitude of those who cannot bring themselves to regard the Christian religion as being the direct work of God. The present writer here addresses to his fellow Christians, more especially laymen, those reasons which have from time to time, appeared to himself to afford a reasonably strong presumption that Nature and Revelation have proceeded from the same Author, and that, therefore, the materials of a credible and rational religion are placed at the disposal of mankind.

Cheyne.—Works by T. K. CHEYNE, M.A., Fellow of Balliol College, Oxford :

THE BOOK OF ISAIAH CHRONOLOGICALLY ARRANGED. An Amended Version, with Historical and Critical Introductions and Explanatory Notes. Crown 8vo. 7s. 6d.

NOTES AND CRITICISMS ON THE HEBREW TEXT OF ISAIAH. Crown 8vo. 2s. 6d.

Choice Notes on the Four Gospels, drawn from Old and New Sources. Crown 8vo. 4s. 6d. each Vol. (St. Matthew and St. Mark in one Vol. price 9s.)

Church.—Works by the Very Rev. R. W. CHURCH, M.A., D.C.L., Dean of St. Paul's :

ON SOME INFLUENCES OF CHRISTIANITY UPON NATIONAL CHARACTER. Three Lectures delivered in St. Paul's Cathedral, Feb. 1873. Crown 8vo. 4s. 6d.

"Few books that we have met with have given us keener pleasure than this. . . . It would be a real pleasure to quote extensively, so wise and so true, so tender and so discriminating are Dean Church's judgments, but the limits of our space are inexorable. We hope the book will be bought."

—Literary Churchman.

THE SACRED POETRY OF EARLY RELIGIONS.
Two Lectures in St. Paul's Cathedral. 18mo. 1s. I. The Vedas.
II. The Psalms.

ST. ANSELM. Second Edition. Crown 8vo. 6s.

"It is a sketch by the hand of a master, with every line marked by taste, learning, and real apprehension of the subject."—Pall Mall Gazette.

HUMAN LIFE AND ITS CONDITIONS. Sermons preached before the University of Oxford, 1876—78, with Three Ordination Sermons. Crown 8vo. 6s.

THE GIFTS OF CIVILIZATION, and other Sermons and Lectures delivered at Oxford and in St. Paul's Cathedral. New Edition. Crown 8vo. 7s. 6d.

Clergyman's Self-Examination concerning the APOSTLES' CREED. Extra fcap. 8vo. 1s. 6d.

Colenso.—THE COMMUNION SERVICE FROM THE BOOK OF COMMON PRAYER; with Select Readings from the Writings of the Rev. F. D. MAURICE, M.A. Edited by the Right Rev. J. W. COLENSO, D.D., Lord Bishop of Natal. New Edition. 16mo. 2s. 6d.

Collects of the Church of England. With a beautifully Coloured Floral Design to each Collect, and Illuminated Cover. Crown 8vo. 12s. Also kept in various styles of morocco.

Congreve.—HIGH HOPES, AND PLEADINGS FOR A REASONABLE FAITH, NOBLER THOUGHTS, LARGER CHARITY. Sermons preached in the Parish Church of Tooting Graveney, Surrey. By J. CONGREVE, M.A., Rector. Cheaper Issue. Crown 8vo. 5s.

Cooke.—RELIGION AND CHEMISTRY: A Re-statement of an Old Argument. By J. P. COOKE, Erving Professor of Chemistry and Mineralogy in Harvard University. Crown 8vo. 7s. 6d.

Cotton.—Works by the late GEORGE EDWARD LYNCH COTTON, D.D., Bishop of Calcutta :

SERMONS PREACHED TO ENGLISH CONGREGATIONS IN INDIA. Crown 8vo. 7s. 6d.

EXPOSITORY SERMONS ON THE EPISTLES FOR THE SUNDAYS OF THE CHRISTIAN YEAR. Two Vols. Crown 8vo. 15s.

Cunningham.—Works by the Rev. WILLIAM CUNNINGHAM, M.A. :

CHRISTIAN CIVILISATION. With special reference to India. Fcap. 8vo. 5s.

THE CHURCHES OF ASIA. A Methodical Sketch of the Second Century. Crown 8vo. 6s.

“Not merely is such a treatise interesting to the believer; its interest extends to all.”—Morning Post. “We think it on the whole a painstaking and accurate delineation of the development of the ecclesiastical constitution of the Church.”—London Quarterly.

Curteis.—DISSENT in its RELATION to the CHURCH OF ENGLAND. Eight Lectures preached before the University of Oxford, in the year 1871, on the foundation of the late Rev. John Bampton, M.A., Canon of Salisbury. By GEORGE HERBERT CURTEIS, M.A., late Fellow and Sub-Rector of Exeter College; Principal of the Lichfield Theological College, and Prebendary of Lichfield Cathedral; Rector of Turweston, Bucks. New Edition. Crown 8vo. 7s. 6d.

“Mr. Curteis has done good service by maintaining in an eloquent, temperate, and practical manner, that discussion among Christians is really an evil, and that an intelligent basis can be found for at least a proximate union.”—Saturday Review. “A well-timed, learned, and thoughtful book.”

Davies.—Works by the Rev. J. LLEWELYN DAVIES, M.A., Rector of Christ Church, St. Marylebone, etc. :

THE GOSPEL AND MODERN LIFE; with a Preface on a Recent Phase of Deism. Second Edition. To which is added, Morality according to the Sacrament of the Lord's Supper ; or, Three Discourses on the Names, Eucharist, Sacrifice, and Communion. Extra fcap. 8vo. 6s.

DAVIES (Rev. J. Ll.)—continued.

WARNINGS AGAINST SUPERSTITION. IN FOUR SERMONS FOR THE DAY. Extra fcap. 8vo. 2s. 6d.

"We have seldom read a wiser little book. The Sermons are short, terse, and full of true spiritual wisdom, expressed with a lucidity and a moderation that must give them weight even with those who agree least with their author. . . . . Of the volume as a whole it is hardly possible to speak with too cordial an appreciation."—Spectator.

THE CHRISTIAN CALLING. Sermons. Extra fcap. 8vo. 6s.

Donaldson.—THE APOSTOLICAL FATHERS: a Critical Account of their Genuine Writings and of their Doctrines. By JAMES DONALDSON, LL.D. Crown 8vo. 7s. 6d.

Eadie.—Works by JOHN EADIE, D.D., LL.D., Professor of Biblical Literature and Exegesis, United Presbyterian Church :

THE ENGLISH BIBLE. An External and Critical History of the various English Translations of Scripture, with Remarks on the Need of Revising the English New Testament. Two vols. 8vo. 28s.

"Accurate, scholarly, full of completest sympathy with the translators and their work, and marvellously interesting."—Literary Churchman.
"The work is a very valuable one. It is the result of vast labour, sound scholarship, and large erudition."—British Quarterly Review.

ST. PAUL'S EPISTLES TO THE THESSALONIANS. A Commentary on the Greek Text. Edited by the Rev. W. YOUNG, M.A., with a Preface by the Rev. Professor CAIRNS, D.D. 8vo. 12s.

Ecce Homo. A SURVEY OF THE LIFE AND WORK OF JESUS CHRIST. Fourteenth Edition. Crown 8vo. 6s.

"A very original and remarkable book, full of striking thought and delicate perception ; a book which has realised with wonderful vigour and freshness the historical magnitude of Christ's work, and which here and there gives us readings of the finest kind of the probable motive of His individual words and actions."—Spectator. "The best and most established believer will find it adding some fresh buttresses to his faith."—Literary Churchman. "If we have not misunderstood him, we have before us a writer who has a right to claim deference from those who think deepest and know most."—Guardian.

Ecclesiastes. A TREATISE ON THE AUTHORSHIP OF ECCLESIASTES. To which is added a Dissertation on that which was spoken through Jeremiah the Prophet, as quoted in Matthew XXVII. 9, 10. Crown 8vo. 14s.

Faber.—SERMONS AT A NEW SCHOOL. By the Rev. ARTHUR FABER, M.A., Head Master of Malvern College. Crown 8vo. 6s.

Farrar.—Works by the Rev. F. W. FARRAR, D.D., F.R.S., Canon of Westminster, late Head Master of Marlborough College: THE FALL OF MAN, AND OTHER SERMONS. Fourth Edition. Crown 8vo. 6s.

"Ability, eloquence, scholarship, and practical usefulness, are in these Sermons combined in a very unusual degree."—British Quarterly.

THE WITNESS OF HISTORY TO CHRIST. Being the Hulsean Lectures for 1870. Sixth Edition. Crown 8vo. 5s.

The following are the subjects of the Five Lectures:—I. "The Antecedent Credibility of the Miraculous." II. "The Adequacy of the Gospel Records." III. "The Victories of Christianity." IV. "Christianity and the Individual." V. "Christianity and the Race." The subjects of the four Appendices are:—A. "The Diversity of Christian Evidences." B. "Confucius." C. "Buddha." D. "Comte."

SEEKERS AFTER GOD. The Lives of Seneca, Epictetus, and Marcus Aurelius. Eighth Edition. Crown 8vo. 6s.

"A very interesting and valuable book."—Saturday Review.

THE SILENCE AND VOICES OF GOD: University and other Sermons. Fifth Edition. Crown 8vo. 6s.

"We can most cordially recommend Dr. Farrar's singularly beautiful volume of Sermons. . . . For beauty of diction, felicity of style, aptness of illustration and earnest loving exhortation, the volume is without its parallel."—John Bull. "They are marked by great ability, by an honesty which does not hesitate to acknowledge difficulties and by an earnestness which commands respect."—Pall Mall Gazette.

"IN THE DAYS OF THY YOUTH." Sermons on Practical Subjects, preached at Marlborough College from 1871—76. Sixth Edition. Crown 8vo. 9s.

"All Dr. Farrar's peculiar charm of style is apparent here, all that care and subtleness of analysis, and an even-added distinctness and clear*ness of moral teaching, which is what every kind of sermon wants, and especially a sermon to boys.*—Literary Churchman.

FARRAR (Rev. F. W.)—continued.

ETERNAL HOPE. Five Sermons preached in Westminster Abbey, in 1876. With Preface, Notes, etc. Contents: What Heaven is.—Is Life Worth Living?—‘Hell,’ What it is not.—Are there few that be saved?—Earthly and Future Consequences of Sin. Eighteenth Thousand. Crown 8vo. 6s.

SAINTLY WORKERS. Lenten Lectures delivered in St. Andrew’s, Holborn, March and April, 1878. Third Edition. Crown 8vo. 6s.

EPHPHATHA ; or the Amelioration of the World. Sermons preached at Westminster Abbey. With Two Sermons at St. Margaret’s, Westminster, on the Opening of Parliament. Crown 8vo. 6s.

MERCY AND JUDGMENT. A Few Last Words on Christian Eschatology, with reference to Dr. Pusey’s “What is of Faith?” Crown 8vo. 10s. 6d.

This volume contains a further development of the doctrines propounded in Canon Farrar’s former work on ‘Eternal Hope,’ dealing in full with the objections that have been raised to the validity of those doctrines. It is, therefore, an indispensable companion to the previous volume.

Fellowship: LETTERS ADDRESSED TO MY SISTER MOURNERS. Fcap. 8vo, cloth gilt. 3s. 6d.

Ferrar.—A COLLECTION OF FOUR IMPORTANT MSS. OF THE GOSPELS, viz., 13, 69, 124, 346, with a view to prove their common origin, and to restore the Text of their Archetype. By the late W. H. FERRAR, M.A., Professor of Latin in the University of Dublin. Edited by T. K. ABBOTT, M.A., Professor of Biblical Greek, Dublin. 4to, half morocco. 10s. 6d.

Forbes.—Works by GRANVILLE H. FORBES, Rector of Broughton :

THE VOICE OF GOD IN THE PSALMS. Cr. 8vo. 6s. 6d.

VILLAGE SERMONS. By a Northamptonshire Rector. Crown 8vo. 6s.

“Such a volume as the present . . . is as great an accession to the cause of a deep theology as the most refined exposition of its fundamental principles. . . . It is part of the beauty of these sermons that while they apply the old truth to the new modes of feeling they seem to preserve the whiteness of its simplicity . . . . There will be plenty of critics to accuse this volume of inadequacy of doctrine because it says no more than Scripture about vicarious suffering and external retribution. For ourselves we welcome it most cordially as expressing adequately what we believe to be the true burden of the Gospel in a manner which may take hold either of the least or the most cultivated intellect."—Spectator.

Gaskoin.—CHILDREN'S TREASURY OF BIBLE STORIES. By Mrs. HERMAN GASKOIN. Edited, with Preface, by the Rev. G. F. MACLEAR, D.D.

PART I.—Old Testament. 18mo. 1s.

PART II.—New Testament. 18mo. 1s.

PART III.—The Apostles. 18mo. 1s.

"This very careful and well-written work is as good an introduction to Biblical History as we remember to have come across."—Educational Times.

Hardwick.—Works by the Ven. ARCHDEACON HARDWICK :
CHRIST AND OTHER MASTERS. A Historical Inquiry into some of the Chief Parallelisms and Contrasts between Christianity and the Religious Systems of the Ancient World. New Edition, revised, and a Prefatory Memoir by the Rev. FRANCIS PROCTER, M.A. New Edition. Crown 8vo. 10s. 6d.

A HISTORY OF THE CHRISTIAN CHURCH. Middle Age. From Gregory the Great to the Excommunication of Luther. Edited by WILLIAM STUBBS, M.A., Regius Professor of Modern History in the University of Oxford. With Four Maps constructed for this work by A. KEITH JOHNSTON. New Edition. Crown 8vo. 10s. 6d.

"As a Manual for the student of ecclesiastical history in the Middle Ages, we know no English work which can be compared to Mr. Hardwick's book."—Guardian.

A HISTORY OF THE CHRISTIAN CHURCH DURING THE REFORMATION. New Edition, revised by Professor STUBBS. Crown 8vo. 10s. 6d.

This volume is intended as a sequel and companion to the 'History of the Christian Church during the Middle Age.'

Hare.—Works by the late ARCHDEACON HARE :

THE VICTORY OF FAITH. By JULIUS CHARLES HARE, M.A., Archdeacon of Lewes. Edited by Prof. PLUMPTRE. With Introductory Notices by the late Prof. MAURICE and Dean STANLEY. Third Edition. Crown 8vo. 6s. 6d.

THE MISSION OF THE COMFORTER. With Notes. New Edition, edited by Prof. E. H. PLUMPTRE. Cm. 8vo. 7s. 6d.

Harper.—THE METAPHYSICS OF THE SCHOOL. By Thomas Harper, S.J. In 5 vols. Vols. I. and II., 8vo. 18s. each.

"If the Clergy of either communion in this country could be brought to study Father Harper's book, we should augur well for a sounder theology even in the next generation."—Church Quarterly Review.

Harris.—SERMONS. By the late GEORGE COLLYER HARRIS, Prebendary of Exeter, and Vicar of St. Luke's, Torquay. With Memoir by CHARLOTTE M. YONGE, and Portrait. Extra fcap. 8vo. 6s.

Hervey.—THE GENEALOGIES OF OUR LORD AND SAVIOUR JESUS CHRIST, as contained in the Gospels of St. Matthew and St. Luke, reconciled with each other, and shown to be in harmony with the true Chronology of the Times. By Lord ARTHUR HERVEY, Bishop of Bath and Wells. 8vo. 10s. 6d.

Hort.—TWO DISSERTATIONS. I. On ΜΟΝΟΓΕΝΗΣ ΘΕΟΣ in Scripture and Tradition. II. On the "Constantinopolitan" Creed and other Eastern Creeds of the Fourth Century. By F. J. A. HORT, D.D., Fellow and Divinity Lecturer of Emmanuel College, Cambridge. 8vo. 7s. 6d.

Howson (Dean)—Works by :

BEFORE THE TABLE. An Inquiry, Historical and Theological, into the True Meaning of the Consecration Rubric in the Communion Service of the Church of England. By the Very Rev. J. S. HOWSON, D.D., Dean of Chester. With an Appendix and Supplement containing Papers by the Right Rev. the Bishop of St. Andrew's and the Rev. R. W. KENNION, .A. 8vo. 7s. 6d.

THE POSITION OF THE PRIEST DURING CONSECRATION IN THE ENGLISH COMMUNION SERVICE. A Supplement and a Reply. Crown 8vo. 2s. 6d.

Hughes.—THE MANLINESS OF CHRIST. By THOMAS HUGHES, Author of 'Tom Brown's School Days.' Cr. 8vo. 4s. 6d.

"He has given to the world a volume, which so truly, and in some places so picturesquely and strikingly, represents the life of our Lord, that we can only express the hope that it may find its way into the hands of thousands of English working men."—Spectator.

Hutton.—ESSAYS: THEOLOGICAL AND LITERARY. By RICHARD HUTTON, .A. New and cheaper issue. 2 vols. 8vo. 18s.

Hymni Ecclesiæ.—Fcap. 8vo. 7s. 6d.

This collection was edited by Dr. Newman while he lived at Oxford.

Hyacinthe.—CATHOLIC REFORM. By FATHER HYACINTHE. Letters, Fragments, Discourses. Translated by Madame HYACINTHE-LOYSON. With a Preface by the Very Rev. A. P. STANLEY, D.D., Dean of Westminster. Cr. 8vo. 7s. 6d.

"A valuable contribution to the religious literature of the day."—Daily Telegraph.

Illingworth.—SERMONS preached in a College Chapel. With an Appendix. By J. R. Illingworth, M.A., Fellow of Jesus College, and Tutor of Keble College, Oxford. Crown 8vo. 5s.

"These sermons have a rare intensity and reality of tone. . . . It is full of strength, and we should be glad to induce any one to read it."—Spectator.

Imitation of Christ.—FOUR BOOKS. Translated from the Latin, with Preface by the Rev. W. BENHAM, B.D., Vicar of Margate. Printed with Borders in the Ancient Style after Holbein, Dürer, and other Old Masters. Containing Dances of Death, Acts of Mercy, Emblems, and a variety of curious ornamentation. Cr. 8vo, gilt edges. 7s. 6d.

Also in Latin, uniform with the above. New Edition. 7s. 6d.

Jacob.—BUILDING IN SILENCE, AND OTHER SERMONS. By J. A. JACOB, M.A., Minister of St. Thomas's, Paddington. Extra fcap. 8vo. 6s.

Jellett.—THE EFFICACY OF PRAYER: being the Donnellan Lectures for 1877. By J. H. JELLETT, B.D., Senior Fellow of Trinity College, Dublin, formerly President of the Royal Irish Academy. Second Edition. 8vo. 5s.

Jennings and Lowe.—THE PSALMS, with Introductions and Critical Notes. By A. C. JENNINGS, B.A., Jesus College, Cambridge, Tyrwhitt Scholar, Crosse Scholar, Hebrew University Scholar, and Fry Scholar of St. John's College; helped in parts by W. H. LOWE, M.A., Hebrew Lecturer and late Scholar of Christ's College, Cambridge, and Tyrwhitt Scholar. Complete in two vols. crown 8vo. 10s. 6d. each. Vol. 1, Psalms i.—lxxii., with Prolegomena; Vol. 2, Psalms lxxiii.—cl.

Killen.—THE ECCLESIASTICAL HISTORY OF IRELAND from the Earliest Period to the Present Time. By W. D. KILLEN, D.D., President of Assembly's College, Belfast, and Professor of Ecclesiastical History. Two vols. 8vo. 25s.

"Those who have the leisure will do well to read these two volumes. They are full of interest, and are the result of great research."—Spectator.

Kingsley.—Works by the late Rev. CHARLES KINGSLEY, M.A., Rector of Eversley, and Canon of Westminster :

THE WATER OF LIFE, AND OTHER SERMONS. New Edition. Crown 8vo. 6s.

THE GOSPEL OF THE PENTATEUCH ; AND DAVID. New Edition. Crown. 8vo. 6s.

GOOD NEWS OF GOD. New Edition. Crown 8vo. 6s.
SERMONS FOR THE TIMES. New Edition. Crown 8vo. 6s.

VILLAGE AND TOWN AND COUNTRY SERMONS. New Edition. Crown 8vo. 6s.

SERMONS on NATIONAL SUBJECTS, THE KING OF THE EARTH, AND OTHER SERMONS. New Edition. Crn. 8vo. 6s.

DISCIPLINE, AND OTHER SERMONS. New Edition. Crown 8vo. 6s.

WESTMINSTER SERMONS. With Preface. New Edition. Crown 8vo. 6s.

OUT OF THE DEEP. Words for the Sorrowful. From the Writings of CHARLES KINGSLEY. Extra fcap. 8vo. 3s. 6d.

Kynaston.—SERMONS PREACHED IN THE COLLEGE CHAPEL, CHELTENHAM, during the First Year of his Office. By the Rev. HERBERT KYNASTON, M.A., Principal of Cheltenham College. Crown 8vo. 6s.

Lightfoot.—Works by J. B. LIGHTFOOT, D.D., Bishop of Durham :

ST. PAUL'S EPISTLE TO THE GALATIANS. A Revised Text, with Introduction, Notes, and Dissertations. Seventh Edition, revised. 8vo, cloth. 12s.

While the Author's object has been to make this commentary generally complete, he has paid special attention to everything relating to St. Paul's personal history and his intercourse with the Apostles and Church of the Circumcision, as it is this feature in the Epistle to the Galatians which has given it an overwhelming interest in recent theological controversy. The Spectator says—"There is no commentator at once of sounder judgment and more liberal than Dr. Lightfoot."

ST. PAUL'S EPISTLE TO THE PHILIPPIANS. A Revised Text, with Introduction, Notes, and Dissertations. Sixth Edition, revised. 8vo. 12s.

LIGHTFOOT (Dr.)—continued.

"No commentary in the English language can be compared with it in regard to fulness of information, exact scholarship, and laboured attempts to settle everything about the epistle on a solid foundation."—Athenæum.

ST. PAUL'S EPISTLES TO THE COLOSSIANS AND TO PHILEMON. A Revised Text with Introduction, Notes, etc. Fifth Edition, revised. 8vo. 12s.

"It bears marks of continued and extended reading and research, and of ampler materials at command. Indeed, it leaves nothing to be desired by those who seek to study thoroughly the epistles contained in it, and to do so with all known advantages presented in sufficient detail and in convenient form."—Guardian.

ST. CLEMENT OF ROME. An Appendix containing the newly discovered portions of the two Epistles to the Corinthians, with Introductions and Notes, and a Translation of the whole. 8vo. 8s. 6d.

ON A FRESH REVISION OF THE ENGLISH NEW TESTAMENT. Second Edition. Crown 8vo. 6s.

The Author shews in detail the necessity for a fresh revision of the authorized version on the following grounds:—1. False Readings. 2. Artificial distinctions created. 3. Real distinctions obliterated. 4. Faults of Grammar. 5. Faults of Lexicography. 6. Treatment of Proper Names, official titles, etc. 7. Archaisms, defects in the English, errors of the press, etc. "The book is marked by careful scholarship, familiarity with the subject, sobriety, and circumspection."—Athenæum.

Maclaren.—SERMONS PREACHED at MANCHESTER.
By ALEXANDER MACLAREN. Sixth Edition. Fcap. 8vo. 4s. 6d.

These Sermons represent no special school, but deal with the broad principles of Christian truth, especially in their bearing on practical, every-day life. A few of the titles are:—"The Stone of Stumbling," "Love and Forgiveness," "The Living Dead," "Memory in Another World," "Faith in Christ," "Love and Fear," "The Choice of Wisdom," "The Food of the World."

A SECOND SERIES OF SERMONS. Fourth Edition. Fcap. 8vo. 4s. 6d.

The Spectator characterises them as "vigorous in style, full of thought, rich in illustration, and in an unusual degree interesting."

A THIRD SERIES OF SERMONS. Third Edition. Fcap. 8vo. 4s. 6d.

MACLAREN (A.)—continued.

“Sermons more sober and yet more forcible, and with a certain wise and practical spirituality about them it would not be easy to find.”—Spectator.

WEEK-DAY EVENING ADDRESSES. Delivered in Manchester. Extra Fcap. 8vo. 2s. 6d.

Maclear.—Works by the Rev. G. F. MACLEAR, D.D., Warden of St. Augustine's, Canterbury, late Head Master of King's College School:

A CLASS-BOOK OF OLD TESTAMENT HISTORY.
With Four Maps. New Edition. 18mo. 4s. 6d.

“The present volume,” says the Preface, “forms a Class-Book of Old Testament History from the Earliest Times to those of Ezra and Nehemiah. In its preparation the most recent authorities have been consulted, and wherever it has appeared useful, Notes have been subjoined illustrative of the Text, and, for the sake of more advanced students, references added to larger works. The Index has been so arranged as to form a concise Dictionary of the Persons and Places mentioned in the course of the Narrative.” The Maps, prepared by Stanford, materially add to the value and usefulness of the book. The British Quarterly Review calls it “A careful and elaborate, though brief compendium of all that modern research has done for the illustration of the Old Testament. We know of no work which contains so much important information in so small a compass.”

A CLASS-BOOK OF NEW TESTAMENT HISTORY.
Including the Connexion of the Old and New Testament. New Edition. 18mo. 5s. 6d.

*The present volume forms a sequel to the Author's Class-Book of Old Testament History, and continues the narrative to the close of St. Paul's second imprisonment at Rome. The work is divided into three Books—*I. The Connexion between the Old and New Testament. II. The Gospel History. III. The Apostolic History. In the Appendix are given Chronological Tables. The Clerical Journal says, “It is not often that such an amount of useful and interesting matter on biblical subjects is found in so convenient and small a compass as in this well-arranged volume.”

A CLASS-BOOK OF THE CATECHISM OF THE CHURCH OF ENGLAND. New and Cheaper Edition. 18mo.
1s. 6d.

The present work is intended as a sequel to the two preceding books. Like them, it is furnished with notes and references to larger works, and it is hoped that it may be found, especially in the higher forms of our Public Schools, to supply a suitable manual of instruction in the chief doctrines of our Church, and a useful help in the preparation of Candidates for Confirmation." The Literary Churchman says, "It is indeed the work of a scholar and divine, and as such, though extremely simple, it is also extremely instructive. There are few clergy who would not find it useful in preparing Candidates for Confirmation; and there are not a few who would find it useful to themselves as well."

MACLEAR (Dr. G. F.)—continued.

A FIRST CLASS-BOOK OF THE CATECHISM OF THE CHURCH OF ENGLAND, with Scripture Proofs for Junior Classes and Schools. New Edition. 18mo. 6d.

This is an epitome of the larger Class-book, meant for junior students and elementary classes. The book has been carefully condensed, so as to contain clearly and fully the most important part of the contents of the larger book.

A SHILLING-BOOK OF OLD TESTAMENT HISTORY.
New Edition. 18mo.

This Manual bears the same relation to the larger Old Testament History, that the book just mentioned does to the larger work on the Catechism. It consists of Ten Books, divided into short chapters, and subdivided into sections, each section treating of a single episode in the history, the title of which is given in bold type.

A SHILLING-BOOK OF NEW TESTAMENT HISTORY.
New Edition. 18mo.

A MANUAL OF INSTRUCTION FOR CONFIRMATION AND FIRST COMMUNION, with Prayers and Devotions. 32mo. 2s.

This is an enlarged and improved edition of 'The Order of Confirmation.' To it have been added the Communion Office, with Notes and Explanations, together with a brief form of Self-Examination and Devotions selected from the works of Cosin, Ken, Wilson, and others.

THE ORDER OF CONFIRMATION, with Prayers and Devotions. 32mo. 6d.

THE FIRST COMMUNION, with Prayers and Devotions for the Newly Confirmed. 32mo. 6d.

THE HOUR OF SORROW ; or, The Order for the Burial of the Dead. With Prayers and Hymns. 32mo. 2s.

MACLEAR (Dr. G. F.)—continued.

APOSTLES OF MEDIÆVAL EUROPE. Cr. 8vo. 4s. 6d.

“Mr. Maclear will have done a great work if his admirable little volume shall help to break up the dense ignorance which is still prevailing among people at large.”—Literary Churchman.

Macmillan.—Works by the Rev. HUGH MACMILLAN, LL.D.,
F.R.S.E. (For other Works by the same Author, see CATALOGUE OF TRAVELS and SCIENTIFIC CATALOGUE).

TWO WORLDS ARE OURS. Globe 8vo. 6s.

THE TRUE VINE; or, the Analogies of our Lord's Allegory. Fourth Edition. Globe 8vo. 6s.

The Nonconformist says—“It abounds in exquisite bits of description, and in striking facts clearly stated.” The British Quarterly says—“Readers and preachers who are unscientific will find many of his illustrations as valuable as they are beautiful.”

BIBLE TEACHINGS IN NATURE. Twelfth Edition.
Globe 8vo. 6s.

In this volume the author has endeavoured to shew that the teaching of Nature and the teaching of the Bible are directed to the same great end; that the Bible contains the spiritual truths which are necessary to make us wise unto salvation, and the objects and scenes of Nature are the pictures by which these truths are illustrated. “He has made the world more beautiful to us, and unsealed our ears to voices of praise and messages of love that might otherwise have been unheard.”—British Quarterly Review. “Dr. Macmillan has produced a book which may be fitly described as one of the happiest efforts for enlisting physical science in the direct service of religion.”—Guardian.

THE SABBATH OF THE FIELDS. A Sequel to ‘Bible
Teachings in Nature.’ Third Edition. Globe 8vo. 6s.

“This volume, like all Dr. Macmillan's productions, is very delightful reading, and of a special kind. Imagination, natural science, and religious instruction are blended together in a very charming way.”—British Quarterly Review.

THE MINISTRY OF NATURE. Fourth Edition. Globe
8vo. 6s.

“Whether the reader agree or not with his conclusions, he will acknowledge he is in the presence of an original and thoughtful writer.”—Pall Mall Gazette. “There is no class of educated men and women that will not profit by these essays.”—Standard.

OUR LORD'S THREE RAISINGS FROM THE DEAD.
Globe 8vo. 6s.

Materialism : Ancient and Modern. By a late Fellow of Trinity College, Cambridge. Crown 8vo. 2s.

Maurice.—Works by the late Rev. F. DENISON MAURICE, M.A., Professor of Moral Philosophy in the University of Cambridge :

The Spectator says—“Few of those of our own generation whose names will live in English history or literature have exerted so profound and so permanent an influence as Mr. Maurice.”

THE PATRIARCHS AND LAWGIVERS OF THE OLD TESTAMENT. Third and Cheaper Edition. Crown 8vo. 5s.

The Nineteen Discourses contained in this volume were preached in the chapel of Lincoln's Inn during the year 1851.

THE PROPHETS AND KINGS OF THE OLD TESTAMENT. New Edition. Crown 8vo. 10s. 6d.

Mr. Maurice, in the spirit which animated the compilers of the Church Lessons, has in these Sermons regarded the Prophets more as preachers of righteousness than as mere predictors—an aspect of their lives which, he thinks, has been greatly overlooked in our day, and than which there is none we have more need to contemplate. He has found that the Old Testament Prophets, taken in their simple natural sense, clear up many of the difficulties which beset us in the daily work of life ; make the past intelligible, the present endurable, and the future real and hopeful.

THE GOSPEL OF THE KINGDOM OF HEAVEN. A Series of Lectures on the Gospel of St. Luke. New Edition. Crown 8vo. 9s.

Mr. Maurice, in his Preface to these Twenty-eight Lectures, says—“In these Lectures I have endeavoured to ascertain what is told us respecting the life of Jesus by one of those Evangelists who proclaim Him to be the Christ, who says that He did come from a Father, that He did baptize with the Holy Spirit, that He did rise from the dead. I have chosen the one who is most directly connected with the later history of the Church, who was not an Apostle, who professedly wrote for the use of a man already instructed in the faith of the Apostles. I have followed the course of the writer's narrative, not changing it under any pretext. I have adhered to his phraseology, striving to avoid the substitution of any other for his.”

THE GOSPEL OF ST. JOHN. A Series of Discourses. New Edition. Crown 8vo. 6s.

MAURICE (Rev. F. D.)—continued.

The Literary Churchman thus speaks of this volume: "Thorough honesty, reverence, and deep thought pervade the work, which is every way solid and philosophical, as well as theological, and abounding with suggestions which the patient student may draw out more at length for himself."

THE EPISTLES OF ST. JOHN. A Series of Lectures on Christian Ethics. Second and Cheaper Edition. Cr. 8vo. 6s.

These Lectures on Christian Ethics were delivered to the students of the Working Men's College, Great Ormond Street, London, on a series of Sunday mornings. Mr. Maurice believes that the question in which we are most interested, the question which most affects our studies and our daily lives, is the question, whether there is a foundation for human morality, or whether it is dependent upon the opinions and fashions of different ages and countries. This important question will be found amply and fairly discussed in this volume, which the National Review calls "Mr. Maurice's most effective and instructive work. He is peculiarly fitted by the constitution of his mind, to throw light on St. John's writings." Appended is a note on 'Positivism and its Teacher.'

EXPOSITORY SERMONS ON THE PRAYER-BOOK.

The Prayer-book considered especially in reference to the Romish System; and the Lord's Prayer. Crown 8vo. 9s.

After an Introductory Sermon, Mr. Maurice goes over the various parts of the Church Service, expounds in eighteen Sermons their intention and significance, and shews how appropriate they are as expressions of the deepest longings and wants of all classes of men.

WHAT IS REVELATION? A Series of Sermons on the Epiphany; to which are added, Letters to a Theological Student on the Bampton Lectures of Mr. Mansel. Crown 8vo. 10s. 6d.

Both Sermons and Letters were called forth by the doctrine maintained by Mr. Mansel in his Bampton Lectures, that Revelation cannot be a direct Manifestation of the Infinite Nature of God. Mr. Maurice maintains the opposite doctrine, and in his Sermons explains why, in spite of the high authorities on the other side, he must still assert the principle which he discovers in the Services of the Church and throughout the Bible.

SEQUEL TO THE INQUIRY, 'WHAT IS REVELATION?' Letters in Reply to Mr. Mansel's Examination of 'Strictures on the Bampton Lectures.' Crown 8vo. 6s.

This, as the title indicates, was called forth by Mr. Mansel's examination of Mr. Maurice's Strictures on his doctrine of the Infinite.

MAURICE (Rev. F. D.)—continued.

THEOLOGICAL ESSAYS. Third Edition. Crown 8vo.
10s. 6d.

"The book," says Mr. Maurice, "expresses thoughts which have been working in my mind for years; the method of it has not been adopted carelessly; even the composition has undergone frequent revision."

THE DOCTRINE OF SACRIFICE DEDUCED FROM
THE SCRIPTURES. New Edition. Crown 8vo. 7s. 6d.

THE RELIGIONS OF THE WORLD, AND THEIR
RELATIONS TO CHRISTIANITY. Fifth Edition. Crown
8vo. 5s.

ON THE SABBATH DAY; the Character of the Warrior, and on the Interpretation of History. Fcap. 8vo. 2s. 6d.

THE LORD'S PRAYER, THE CREED, AND THE COMMANDMENTS. A Manual for Parents and Schoolmasters.
To which is added the Order of the Scriptures. 18mo, cloth limp. 1s.

DIALOGUES ON FAMILY WORSHIP. Crown 8vo. 6s.

SOCIAL MORALITY. Twenty-one Lectures delivered in the University of Cambridge. New and Cheaper Edition. Cr.
8vo. 10s. 6d.

"Whilst reading it we are charmed by the freedom from exclusiveness and prejudice, the large charity, the loftiness of thought, the eagerness to recognise and appreciate whatever there is of real worth extant in the world, which animates it from one end to the other. We gain new thoughts and new ways of viewing things, even more, perhaps, from being brought for a time under the influence of so noble and spiritual a mind."
—Athenæum.

THE CONSCIENCE: Lectures on Casuistry, delivered in the University of Cambridge. Second and Cheaper Edition.
Crown 8vo. 5s.

The Saturday Review says—"We rise from the perusal of these lectures with a detestation of all that is selfish and mean, and with a living impression that there is such a thing as goodness after all."

LECTURES ON THE ECCLESIASTICAL HISTORY
OF THE FIRST AND SECOND CENTURIES. 8vo. 10s. 6d.

MAURICE (Rev. F. D.)—continued.

LEARNING AND WORKING. Six Lectures delivered in Willis's Rooms, London, in June and July, 1854.—THE RELIGION OF ROME, and its Influence on Modern Civilisation. Four Lectures delivered in the Philosophical Institution of Edinburgh, in December, 1854. Crown 8vo. 5s.

SERMONS PREACHED IN COUNTRY CHURCHES. New Edition. Crown 8vo. 10s. 6d.

"Earnest, practical, and extremely simple."—Literary Churchman.
"Good specimens of his simple and earnest eloquence. The Gospel incidents are realized with a vividness which we can well believe made the common people hear him gladly. Moreover, they are sermons which must have done the hearers good."—John Bull.

Milligan.—THE RESURRECTION OF OUR LORD. The Croall Lecture for 1879—80. By the Rev. Professor MILLIGAN, D.D., Professor of Divinity and Biblical Criticism in the University of Aberdeen. 8vo. 9s.

Moorhouse.—Works by JAMES MOORHOUSE, M.A., Bishop of Melbourne :

SOME MODERN DIFFICULTIES RESPECTING the FACTS OF NATURE AND REVELATION. Fcap. 8vo. 2s. 6d.

JACOB. Three Sermons preached before the University of Cambridge in Lent, 1870. Extra fcap. 8vo. 3s. 6d.

O'Brien.—PRAYER. Five Sermons preached in the Chapel of Trinity College, Dublin. By JAMES THOMAS O'BRIEN, D.D., Bishop of Ossory and Ferns. 8vo. 6s.

Onesimus.—MEMOIRS OF A DISCIPLE OF ST. PAUL. By the Author of "Philochristus." Demy 8vo. 10s. 6d.

Palgrave.—HYMNS. By FRANCIS TURNER PALGRAVE. Third Edition, enlarged. 18mo. 1s. 6d.

This is a collection of twenty original Hymns, which the Literary Churchman speaks of as "so choice, so perfect, and so refined,—so tender in feeling, and so scholarly in expression."

Paul of Tarsus. An Inquiry into the Times and the Gospel of the Apostle of the Gentiles. By a GRADUATE. 8vo. 10s. 6d.

"No thoughtful reader will rise from its perusal without a real and lasting profit to himself, and a sense of permanent addition to the cause of truth."—Standard.

Philochristus.—MEMOIRS OF A DISCIPLE OF THE LORD. Second Edition. 8vo. 12s.

“The winning beauty of this book and the fascinating power with which the subject of it appeals to all English minds will secure for it many readers.”—Contemporary Review.

Philpott.—A POCKET OF PEBBLES WITH A FEW SHELLS. Being Fragments of Reflection, now and then with Cadence, made up mostly by the Sea Shore. By the Rev. WILLIAM B. PHILPOTT. Second Edition. Picked, Sorted, Polished anew. With Two Illustrations by GEORGE SMITH. Fcap. 8vo. 5s.

Picton.—THE MYSTERY OF MATTER; and other Essays. By J. ALLANSON PICTON, Author of ‘New Theories and the Old Faith.’ Cheaper Edition. With New Preface. Crown 8vo. 6s.

Plumptre.—MOVEMENTS IN RELIGIOUS THOUGHT. Sermons preached before the University of Cambridge, Lent Term, 1879. By E. H. PLUMPTRE, D.D., Professor of Divinity, King’s College, London, Prebendary of St. Paul’s, etc. Fcap. 8vo. 3s. 6d.

Prescott.—THE THRELFOLD CORD. Sermons preached before the University of Cambridge. By J. E. PRESCOTT, B.D. Fcap. 8vo. 3s. 6d.

Procter.—A HISTORY OF THE BOOK OF COMMON PRAYER: With a Rationale of its Offices. By FRANCIS PROCTER, M.A. Sixteenth Edition, revised and enlarged. Cr. 8vo. 10s. 6d.

The Athenæum says—“The origin of every part of the Prayer-book has been diligently investigated,—and there are few questions or facts connected with it which are not either sufficiently explained, or so referred to that persons interested may work out the truth for themselves.”

Procter and Maclear.—AN ELEMENTARY INTRODUCTION TO THE BOOK OF COMMON PRAYER. Re-arranged and Supplemented by an Explanation of the Morning and Evening Prayer and the Litany. By F. PROCTER, M.A., and G. F. MACLEAR, D.D. New Edition. Enlarged by the addition of the Communion Service and the Baptismal and Confirmation Offices. 18mo. 2s. 6d.

The Literary Churchman characterises it as “by far the completest and most satisfactory book of its kind we know. We wish it were in the hands of every schoolboy and every schoolmaster in the kingdom.”

Psalms of David CHRONOLOGICALLY ARRANGED. An Amended Version, with Historical Introductions and Explanatory Notes. By FOUR FRIENDS. Second and Cheaper Edition, much enlarged. Crown 8vo. 8s. 6d.

One of the chief designs of the Editors, in preparing this volume, was to restore the Psalter as far as possible to the order in which the Psalms were written. They give the division of each Psalm into strophes, and of each strophe into the lines which composed it, and amend the errors of translation. The Spectator calls it "one of the most instructive and valuable books that have been published for many years."

Psalter (Golden Treasury).—THE STUDENT'S EDITION.

Being an Edition of the above with briefer Notes. 18mo. 3s. 6d.

The aim of this edition is simply to put the reader as far as possible in possession of the plain meaning of the writer. "It is a gem," the Non-conformist says.

Pulsford.—SERMONS PREACHED, IN TRINITY CHURCH, GLASGOW. By WILLIAM PULSFORD, D.D.
Cheaper Edition. Crown 8vo. 4s. 6d.

Ramsay.—THE CATECHISER'S MANUAL; or, the Church Catechism Illustrated and Explained, for the Use of Clergymen, Schoolmasters, and Teachers. By ARTHUR RAMSAY, M.A. Second Edition. 18mo. 1s. 6d.

Rays of Sunlight for Dark Days. A Book of Selections for the Suffering. With a Preface by C. J. VAUGHAN, D.D. 18mo. Ninth Edition. 3s. 6d. Also in morocco, old style.

Dr. Vaughan says in the Preface, after speaking of the general run of Books of Comfort for Mourners—"It is because I think that the little volume now offered to the Christian sufferer is one of greater wisdom and of deeper experience, that I have readily consented to the request that I would introduce it by a few words of Preface." The book consists of a series of very brief extracts from a great variety of authors, in prose and poetry, suited to the many moods of a mourning or suffering mind. "Mostly gems of the first water."—Clerical Journal.

Reynolds.—NOTES OF THE CHRISTIAN LIFE. A Selection of Sermons by HENRY ROBERT REYNOLDS, B.A., President of Cheshunt College, and Fellow of University College, London. Crown 8vo. 7s. 6d.

Roberts.—DISCUSSIONS ON THE GOSPELS. By the Rev. ALEXANDER ROBERTS, D.D. Second Edition, revised and enlarged. 8vo. 16s.

Robinson.—MAN IN THE IMAGE OF GOD; and other Sermons preached in the Chapel of the Magdalen, Streatham, 1874—76. By H. G. ROBINSON, M.A., Prebendary of York. Crown 8vo. 7s. 6d.

Romanes.—CHRISTIAN PRAYER AND GENERAL LAWS, being the Burney Prize Essay for 1873. With an Appendix, examining the views of Messrs. Knight, Robertson, Brooke, Tyndall, and Galton. By GEORGE J. ROMANES, M.A. Crown 8vo. 5s.

Rushbrooke.—SYNOPTICON: An Exposition of the Common Matter of the Synoptic Gospels. By W. G. RUSHBROOKE, M.L., Fellow of St. John's College, Cambridge. Printed in colours. In Six Parts and Appendices. 4to. Part I. 3s. 6d. Parts II. and III. 7s. Parts IV. V. and VI. With Indices. 10s. 6d. Appendices, 10s. 6d., or the complete work, in one vol. cloth, 35s.

Salmon.—NON-MIRACULOUS CHRISTIANITY, and other Sermons, preached in the Chapel of Trinity College, Dublin. By GEORGE SALMON, D.D., Chancellor of St. Patrick's Cathedral, and Regius Professor of Divinity in the University of Dublin. Crown 8vo. 6s.

Scotch Sermons, 1880.—By Principal CAIRD; Rev. J. CUNNINGHAM, D.D.; Rev. D. J. FERGUSON, B.D.; Professor WM. KNIGHT, LL.D.; Rev. W. MACKINTOSH, D.D.; Rev. W. L. M'FARLAN; Rev. ALLAN MENZIES, B.D.; Rev. T. NICOLL; Rev. T. RAIN, M.A.; Rev. A. SEMPLE, B.D.; Rev. J. STEVENSON; Rev. PATRICK STEVENSON; Rev. R. H. STORY, D.D. 8vo. Third Edition. 10s. 6d.

The Pall Mall Gazette says—“The publication of a volume of Scotch Sermons, contributed by members of the Established Church, seems likely to cause as much commotion in that body as ‘Essays and Reviews’ did in the Church of England.”

Selborne.—THE BOOK OF PRAISE: From the Best English Hymn Writers. Selected and arranged by Lord SELBORNE. With Vignette by T. WOOLNER, R.A. 18mo. 4s. 6d.

It has been the Editor's desire and aim to adhere strictly, in all cases in which it could be ascertained, to the genuine uncorrupted text of the authors themselves. The names of the authors and date of composition of the hymns, when known, are affixed, while notes are added to the volume, giving further details. The Hymns are arranged according to subjects. “There is not room for two opinions as to the value of the ‘Book of Praise.”
—Guardian. “Approaches as nearly as one can conceive to perfection.”
—Nonconformist.

BOOK OF PRAISE HYMNAL. See end of this Catalogue.

Sermons out of Church. By the Author of "John Halifax, Gentleman." New Edition. Crown 8vo. 6s.

Speaking of this volume the Reviewers remark: "We have read this book with no small pleasure. The author is well entitled to speak on many of the questions she has raised here. In many ways her book is timely."—British Quarterly Review. "We may fairly advise young housekeepers especially diligently to study the pages devoted to the Servant question—but called 'My Brother's Keeper'—a simple, practical, wise treatise on a difficult subject."—Spectator.

Service.—SALVATION HERE AND HEREAFTER.

Sermons and Essays. By the Rev. JOHN SERVICE, D.D., Minister of Inch. Fourth Edition. Crown 8vo. 6s.

"We have enjoyed to-day a rare pleasure, having just closed a volume of sermons which rings true metal from title page to finis, and proves that another and very powerful recruit has been added to that small band of ministers of the Gospel who are not only abreast of the religious thought of their time, but have faith enough and courage enough to handle the questions which are the most critical, and stir men's minds most deeply, with frankness and thoroughness."—Spectator.

Shipley.—A THEORY ABOUT SIN, in relation to some Facts of Daily Life. Lent Lectures on the Seven Deadly Sins. By the Rev. ORBY SHIPLEY, M.A. Crown 8vo. 7s. 6d.

Smith.—PROPHECY A PREPARATION FOR CHRIST.

Eight Lectures preached before the University of Oxford, being the Bampton Lectures for 1869. By R. PAYNE SMITH, D.D., Dean of Canterbury. Second and Cheaper Edition. Crown 8vo. 6s.

The author's object in these Lectures is to shew that there exists in the Old Testament an element, which no criticism on naturalistic principles can either account for or explain away: that element is Prophecy. The author endeavours to prove that its force does not consist merely in its predictions. "These Lectures overflow with solid learning."—Record.

Smith.—CHRISTIAN FAITH. Sermons preached before the University of Cambridge. By W. SAUMAREZ SMITH, M.A., Principal of St. Aidan's College, Birkenhead. Fcap. 8vo. 3s. 6d.

Stanley.—Works by the late Very Rev. A. P. STANLEY, D.D., Dean of Westminster :

THE ATHANASIAN CREED, with a Preface on the General Recommendations of the RITUAL COMMISSION. Cr. 8vo. 2s.

STANLEY (Dean)—continued.

“Dr. Stanley puts with admirable force the objections which may be made to the Creed; equally admirable, we think, is his statement of its advantages.”—Spectator.

THE NATIONAL THANKSGIVING. Sermons preached in Westminster Abbey. Second Edition. Crown 8vo. 2s. 6d.

ADDRESSES AND SERMONS AT ST. ANDREW'S in 1872, 1875 and 1876. Crown 8vo. 5s.

Stewart and Tait.—THE UNSEEN UNIVERSE; or, Physical Speculations on a Future State. By Professors BALFOUR STEWART and P. G. TAIT. Tenth Edition, Revised and Enlarged. Crown 8vo. 6s.

“A most remarkable and most interesting volume, which, probably more than any that has appeared in modern times, will affect religious thought on many momentous questions—insensibly it may be, but very largely and very beneficially.”—Church Quarterly. “This book is one which well deserves the attention of thoughtful and religious readers..... It is a perfectly safe enquiry, on scientific grounds, into the possibilities of a future existence.”—Guardian.

Stubbs.—Works by Rev. CHARLES WILLIAM STUBBS, M.A., Vicar of Granborough, Bucks. :

VILLAGE POLITICS. Addresses and Sermons on the Labour Question. Extra fcap. 8vo. 3s. 6d.

“The sermons in this book are all worth reading. . . . They are full of warm sympathy for the labourers and sound practical advice to all classes concerned in the struggle.”—Guardian. “It is a most encouraging sign of the times, that a clergyman of the Church of England can be found to deliver such discourses as these.”—Westminster Review.

THE MYTHE OF LIFE, and other Sermons, with an Introduction on the Social Mission of the Church. Extra fcap. 8vo. 3s. 6d.

Taylor.—THE RESTORATION OF BELIEF. New and Revised Edition. By ISAAC TAYLOR, Esq. Crown 8vo. 8s. 6d.

Temple.—SERMONS PREACHED IN THE CHAPEL of RUGBY SCHOOL. By F. TEMPLE, D.D., Bishop of Exeter. New and Cheaper Edition. Extra fcap. 8vo. 4s. 6d.

This volume contains Thirty-five Sermons on topics more or less intimately connected with every-day life. The following are a few of the subjects discoursed upon:—“Love and Duty;” “Coming to Christ;”

TEMPLE (Dr.)—continued.

“Great Men;” “Faith;” “Doubts;” “Scruples;” “Original Sin;”
“Friendship;” “Helping Others;” “The Discipline of Temptation;” “Strength a Duty;” “Worldliness;” “Ill Temper;” “The Burial of the Past.”

A SECOND SERIES OF SERMONS PREACHED IN THE CHAPEL OF RUGBY SCHOOL. Second Edition.
Extra fcap. 8vo. 6s.

This Second Series of Forty-two brief, pointed, practical Sermons, on topics intimately connected with the every-day life of young and old, will be acceptable to all who are acquainted with the First Series. The following are a few of the subjects treated of:—“Disobedience,” “Almsgiving,” “The Unknown Guidance of God,” “Apathy one of our Trials,” “High Aims in Leaders,” “Doing our Best,” “The Use of Knowledge,” “Use of Observances,” “Martha and Mary,” “John the Baptist,” “Severity before Mercy,” “Even Mistakes Punished,” “Morality and Religion,” “Children,” “Action the Test of Spiritual Life,” “Self-Respect,” “Too Late,” “The Tercentenary.”

A THIRD SERIES OF SERMONS PREACHED IN
RUGBY SCHOOL CHAPEL IN 1867—1869. Extra fcap. 8vo. 6s.

This Third Series of Bishop Temple's Rugby Sermons, contains thirty-six brief discourses, including the “Good-bye” sermon preached on his leaving Rugby to enter on the office he now holds.

Thornely.—THE ETHICAL AND SOCIAL ASPECT OF HABITUAL CONFESSION TO A PRIEST. By
THOMAS THORNELY, B.A., LL.M., Lightfoot and Whewell
Scholar in the University of Cambridge, Law Student at Trinity Hall and Inns of Court, Student in Jurisprudence and Roman Law. Crown 8vo. 4s. 6d.

“The calm and judicial spirit in which the inquiry is conducted is in keeping with the aim of the writer, and we are heartily in sympathy with him in his conclusions as far as he goes.”—London Quarterly. “It is marked by an evident desire to avoid over-statement, and to be strictly impartial.”—Cambridge Review.

Thring.—THOUGHTS ON LIFE-SCIENCE. By Rev.
EDWARD TRING, M.A. New Edition, enlarged and revised.
Crown 8vo. 7s. 6d.

Thrupp.—AN INTRODUCTION TO THE STUDY AND USE OF THE PSALMS. By the Rev. J. F. THRUPP, M.A., late Fellow of Trinity College, Cambridge. New Edition, 2 vols.
8vo. 25s.

Trench.—Works by R. CHENEVIX TRENCH, D.D., Archbishop of Dublin :

NOTES ON THE PARABLES OF OUR LORD.
Fourteenth Edition. 8vo. 12s.

This work has taken its place as a standard exposition and interpretation of Christ's Parables. The book is prefaced by an Introductory Essay in four chapters:—I. On the definition of the Parable. II. On Teaching by Parables. III. On the Interpretation of the Parables. IV. On other Parables besides those in the Scriptures. The author then proceeds to take up the Parables one by one, and by the aid of philology, history, antiquities, and the researches of travellers, shews forth the significance, beauty, and applicability of each, concluding with what he deems its true moral interpretation. In the numerous Notes are many valuable references, illustrative quotations, critical and philological annotations, etc., and appended to the volume is a classified list of fifty-six works on the Parables.

NOTES ON THE MIRACLES OF OUR LORD.
Eleventh Edition, revised. 8vo. 12s.

In the 'Preliminary Essay' to this work, all the momentous and interesting questions that have been raised in connection with Miracles, are discussed with considerable fulness. The Essay consists of six chapters:—I. On the Names of Miracles, i.e. the Greek words by which they are designated in the New Testament. II. The Miracles and Nature—What is the difference between a Miracle and any event in the ordinary course of Nature? III. The Authority of Miracles—Is the Miracle to command absolute obedience? IV. The Évangélical, compared with the other cycles of Miracles. V. The Assaults on the Miracles—1. The Jewish. 2. The Heathen (Celsus, etc.). 3. The Pantheistic (Spinoza, etc.). 4. The Sceptical (Hume). 5. The Miracles only relatively miraculous (Schleiermacher). 6. The Rationalistic (Paulus). 7. The Historico-Critical (Woolston, Strauss). VI. The Apologetic Worth of the Miracles. The author then treats the separate Miracles as he does the Parables.

SYNONYMS OF THE NEW TESTAMENT. Ninth Edition, enlarged. 8vo. 12s.

This Edition has been carefully revised, and a considerable number of new Synonyms added. Appended is an Index to the Synonyms, and an Index to many other words alluded to or explained throughout the work. "He is," the Athenæum says, "a guide in this department of knowledge to whom his readers may intrust themselves with confidence. His sober judgment and sound sense are barriers against the misleading influence of arbitrary hypotheses."

ON THE AUTHORIZED VERSION OF THE NEW TESTAMENT. Second Edition. 8vo. 7s.

After some Introductory Remarks, in which the propriety of a revision is briefly discussed, the whole question of the merits of the present version is gone into in detail, in eleven chapters. Appended is a chronological list of works bearing on the subject, an Index of the principal Texts considered, an Index of Greek Words, and an Index of other Words referred to throughout the book.

TRENCH (Archbishop)—continued.

STUDIES IN THE GOSPELS. Fourth Edition, revised.

8vo. 10s. 6d.

This book is published under the conviction that the assertion often made is untrue,—viz. that the Gospels are in the main plain and easy, and that all the chief difficulties of the New Testament are to be found in the Epistles. These 'Studies,' sixteen in number, are the fruit of a much larger scheme, and each Study deals with some important episode mentioned in the Gospels, in a critical, philosophical, and practical manner. Many references and quotations are added to the Notes. Among the subjects treated are:—The Temptation; Christ and the Samaritan Woman; The Three Aspirants; The Transfiguration; Zacchæus; The True Vine; The Penitent Malefactor; Christ and the Two Disciples on the way to Emmaus.

COMMENTARY ON THE EPISTLES to the SEVEN CHURCHES IN ASIA. Third Edition, revised. 8vo. 8s. 6d.

The present work consists of an Introduction, being a commentary on Rev. i. 4—20, a detailed examination of each of the Seven Epistles, in all its bearings, and an Excursus on the Historico-Prophetical Interpretation of the Epistles.

THE SERMON ON THE MOUNT. An Exposition drawn from the writings of St. Augustine, with an Essay on his merits as an Interpreter of Holy Scripture. Fourth Edition, enlarged. 8vo. 10s. 6d.

The first half of the present work consists of a dissertation in eight chapters on 'Augustine as an Interpreter of Scripture,' the titles of the several chapters being as follow:—I. Augustine's General Views of Scripture and its Interpretation. II. The External Helps for the Interpretation of Scripture possessed by Augustine. III. Augustine's Principles and Canons of Interpretation. IV. Augustine's Allegorical Interpretation of Scripture. V. Illustrations of Augustine's Skill as an Interpreter of Scripture. VI. Augustine on John the Baptist and on St. Stephen. VII. Augustine on the Epistle to the Romans. VIII. Miscellaneous Examples of Augustine's Interpretation of Scripture. The latter half of the work consists of Augustine's Exposition of the Sermon on the Mount, not however a mere series of quotations from Augustine, but a connected account of his sentiments on the various passages of that Sermon, interspersed with criticisms by Archbishop Trench.

SHIPWRECKS OF FAITH. Three Sermons preached before the University of Cambridge in May, 1867. Fcap. 8vo. 2s. 6d.

TRENCH (Archbishop)—continued.

These Sermons are especially addressed to young men. The subjects are "Balaam," "Saul," and "Judas Iscariot," These lives are set forth as beacon-lights, "to warn us off from perilous reefs and quicksands, which have been the destruction of many, and which might only too easily be ours." The John Bull says—"they are, like all he writes, affectionate and earnest discourses."

SERMONS Preached for the most part in Ireland. 8vo. 10s. 6d.

This volume consists of Thirty-two Sermons, the greater part of which were preached in Ireland; the subjects are as follow:—Jacob, a Prince with God and with Men—Agrippa—The Woman that was a Sinner—Secret Faults—The Seven Worse Spirits—Freedom in the Truth—Joseph and his Brethren—Bearing one another's Burdens—Christ's Challenge to the World—The Love of Money—The Salt of the Earth—The Armour of God—Light in the Lord—The Failer of Philippi—The Thorn in the Flesh—Isaiah's Vision—Selfishness—Abraham interceding for Sodom—Vain Thoughts—Pontius Pilate—The Brazen Serpent—The Death and Burial of Moses—A Word from the Cross—The Church's Worship in the Beauty of Holiness—Every Good Gift from Above—On the Hearing of Prayer—The Kingdom which cometh not with Observation—Pressing towards the Mark—Saul—The Good Shepherd—The Valley of Dry Bones—All Saints.

LECTURES ON MEDIEVAL CHURCH HISTORY.

Being the Substance of Lectures delivered in Queen's College, London. Second Edition, revised. 8vo. 12s.

Contents:—The Middle Ages Beginning—The Conversion of England—Islam—The Conversion of Germany—The Iconoclasts—The Crusades—The Papacy at its Height—The Sects of the Middle Ages—The Mendicant Orders—The Waldenses—The Revival of Learning—Christian Art in the Middle Ages, &c. &c.

THE HULSEAN LECTURES, 1845-1846. Fifth Edition, revised. 8vo. 7s. 6d.

This volume consists of Sixteen Sermons, eight being on 'The Fitness of Holy Scripture for unfolding the Spiritual Life of Men,' the others on 'Christ, the Desire of all Nations; or, the unconscious Prophecies of Heathendom.'

Tulloch.—THE CHRIST OF THE GOSPELS AND THE CHRIST OF MODERN CRITICISM. Lectures on M. RENAN'S 'Vie de Jésus.' By JOHN TULLOCH, D.D., Principal of the College of St. Mary, in the University of St. Andrew's. Extra fcap. 8vo. 4s. 6d.

Vaughan.—Works by the very Rev. CHARLES JOHN VAUGHAN, D.D., Dean of Llandaff and Master of the Temple :

CHRIST SATISFYING THE INSTINCTS OF HUMANITY. Eight Lectures delivered in the Temple Church. Second Edition. Extra fcap. 8vo. 3s. 6d.

“We are convinced that there are congregations, in number unmistakably increasing, to whom such Essays as these, full of thought and learning, are infinitely more beneficial, for they are more acceptable, than the recognised type of sermons.”—John Bull.

THE BOOK AND THE LIFE, and other Sermons, preached before the University of Cambridge. Third Edition. Fcap. 8vo. 4s. 6d.

TWELVE DISCOURSES on SUBJECTS CONNECTED WITH THE LITURGY and WORSHIP of the CHURCH OF ENGLAND. Fourth Edition. Fcap. 8vo. 6s.

LESSONS OF LIFE AND GODLINESS. A Selection of Sermons preached in the Parish Church of Doncaster. Fourth and Cheaper Edition. Fcap. 8vo. 3s. 6d.

This volume consists of Nineteen Sermons, mostly on subjects connected with the every-day walk and conversation of Christians. The Spectator styles them “earnest and human. They are adapted to every class and order in the social system, and will be read with wakeful interest by all who seek to amend whatever may be amiss in their natural disposition or in their acquired habits.”

WORDS FROM THE GOSPELS. A Second Selection of Sermons preached in the Parish Church of Doncaster. Third Edition. Fcap. 8vo. 4s. 6d.

The Nonconformist characterises these Sermons as “of practical earnestness, of a thoughtfulness that penetrates the common conditions and experiences of life, and brings the truths and examples of Scripture to bear on them with singular force, and of a style that owes its real elegance to the simplicity and directness which have fine culture for their roots.”

LIFE'S WORK AND GOD'S DISCIPLINE. Three Sermons. Third Edition. Fcap. 8vo. 2s. 6d.

THE WHOLESOME WORDS OF JESUS CHRIST. Four Sermons preached before the University of Cambridge in November, 1866. Second Edition. Fcap. 8vo. 3s. 6d.

Dr. Vaughan uses the word “Wholesome” here in its literal and original sense, the sense in which St. Paul uses it, as meaning healthy, sound, conducing to right living; and in these Sermons he points out and illustrates several of the “wholesome” characteristics of the Gospel,—the Words of Christ. The John Bull says this volume is “replete with all the author's well-known vigour of thought and richness of expression.”

VAUGHAN (Dr. C. J.)—continued.

FOES OF FAITH. Sermons preached before the University of Cambridge in November, 1868. Second Edition. Fcap. 8vo. 3s. 6d.

The "Foes of Faith" preached against in these Four Sermons are:—
I. "Unreality." II. "Indolence." III. "Irreverence." IV. "Inconsistency."

LECTURES ON THE EPISTLE to the PHILIPPIANS.

Fourth and Cheaper Edition. Extra fcap. 8vo. 5s.

Each Lecture is prefaced by a literal translation from the Greek of the paragraph which forms its subject, contains first a minute explanation of the passage on which it is based, and then a practical application of the verse or clause selected as its text.

LECTURES ON THE REVELATION OF ST. JOHN.

Fourth Edition. Two Vols. Extra fcap. 8vo. 9s.

In this Edition of these Lectures, the literal translations of the passages expounded will be found interwoven in the body of the Lectures themselves. "Dr. Vaughan's Sermons," the Spectator says, "are the most practical discourses on the Apocalypse with which we are acquainted." Prefixed is a Synopsis of the Book of Revelation, and appended is an Index of passages illustrating the language of the Book.

EPIPHANY, LENT, AND EASTER. A Selection of Expository Sermons. Third Edition. Crown 8vo. 10s. 6d.

THE EPISTLES OF ST. PAUL. For English Readers.

PART I., containing the FIRST EPISTLE TO THE THESSALONIANS.

Second Edition. 8vo. 1s. 6d.

It is the object of this work to enable English readers, unacquainted with Greek, to enter with intelligence into the meaning, connexion, and phraseology of the writings of the great Apostle.

ST. PAUL'S EPISTLE TO THE ROMANS. The Greek

Text, with English Notes. Fifth Edition. Crown 8vo. 7s. 6d.

The Guardian says of the work—"For educated young men his commentary seems to fill a gap hitherto unfilled. . . . As a whole, Dr. Vaughan appears to us to have given to the world a valuable book of original and careful and earnest thought bestowed on the accomplishment of a work which will be of much service and which is much needed."

THE CHURCH OF THE FIRST DAYS.

Series I. The Church of Jerusalem. Third Edition.

„ II. The Church of the Gentiles. Third Edition.

„ III. The Church of the World. Third Edition.

Fcap. 8vo. 4s. 6d. each.

The British Quarterly says—"These Sermons are worthy of all praise, and are models of pulpit teaching."

VAUGHAN (Dr. C. J.)—continued.

COUNSELS for YOUNG STUDENTS. Three Sermons preached before the University of Cambridge at the Opening of the Academical Year 1870-71. Fcap. 8vo. 2s. 6d.

NOTES FOR LECTURES ON CONFIRMATION, with suitable Prayers. Eleventh Edition. Fcap. 8vo. 1s. 6d.

THE TWO GREAT TEMPTATIONS. The Temptation of Man, and the Temptation of Christ. Lectures delivered in the Temple Church, Lent 1872. Second Edition. Extra fcap. 8vo. 3s. 6d.

WORDS FROM THE CROSS: Lent Lectures, 1875; and Thoughts for these Times: University Sermons, 1874. Extra fcap. 8vo. 4s. 6d.

ADDRESSES TO YOUNG CLERGYMEN, delivered at Salisbury in September and October, 1875. Extra fcap. 8vo. 4s. 6d.

HEROES OF FAITH: Lectures on Hebrews xi. Extra fcap. 8vo. 6s.

THE YOUNG LIFE EQUIPPING ITSELF FOR GOD'S SERVICE: Sermons before the University of Cambridge. Sixth Edition. Extra fcap. 8vo. 3s. 6d.

THE SOLIDITY OF TRUE RELIGION; and other Sermons. Second Edition. Extra fcap. 8vo. 3s. 6d.

MEMORIALS OF HARROW SUNDAYS. A Selection of Sermons preached in the Chapel of Harrow School. Fifth Edition. Crown 8vo. 10s. 6d.

SERMONS IN HARROW SCHOOL CHAPEL (1847). 8vo. 10s. 6d.

NINE SERMONS IN HARROW SCHOOL CHAPEL (1849). Fcap. 8vo. 5s.

"MY SON, GIVE ME THINE HEART;" Sermons preached before the Universities of Oxford and Cambridge, 1876-78. Fcap. 8vo. 5s.

THE LORD'S PRAYER. Second Edition. Extra fcap. 8vo. 3s. 6d.

REST AWHILE: Addresses to Toilers in the Ministry. Extra fcap. 8vo. 5s.

TEMPLE SERMONS. Crown 8vo. 10s. 6d.

This volume contains a selection of the Sermons preached by Dr. Vaughan in the Temple Church during the twelve years that he has held the dignity of Master.

Vaughan (E. T.)—SOME REASONS OF OUR CHRISTIAN HOPE. Hulsean Lectures for 1875. By E. T. VAUGHAN, M.A., Rector of Harpenden. Crown 8vo. 6s. 6d.

Vaughan (D. J.)—Works by CANON VAUGHAN, of Leicester: SERMONS PREACHED IN ST. JOHN'S CHURCH, LEICESTER, during the Years 1855 and 1856. Cr. 8vo. 5s. 6d.

CHRISTIAN EVIDENCES AND THE BIBLE. New Edition, revised and enlarged. Fcap. 8vo. 5s. 6d.

THE PRESENT TRIAL OF FAITH. Sermons preached in St. Martin's Church, Leicester. Crown 8vo. 9s.

Venn.—ON SOME OF THE CHARACTERISTICS OF BELIEF, Scientific and Religious. Being the Hulsean Lectures for 1869. By the Rev. J. VENN, M.A. 8vo. 6s. 6d.

These discourses are intended to illustrate, explain, and work out into some of their consequences, certain characteristics by which the attainment of religious belief is prominently distinguished from the attainment of belief upon most other subjects.

Vita.—LINKS AND CLUES. By Vita. Crown 8vo.

"It is a long time since we have read a book so full of the life of a true spiritual mind. . . . Indeed, it is not so much a book to read through, as to read and return to as you do to the Bible itself, from which its whole significance is derived, in passages suited to the chief interest and difficulties of the moment. . . . We cannot too cordially recommend a book which awakens the spirit, as hardly any book of the last few years has awakened it, to the real meaning of the Christian life."—The Spectator.

Warrington.—THE WEEK OF CREATION; or, The Cosmogony of Genesis considered in its Relation to Modern Science. By GEORGE WARRINGTON, Author of 'The Historic Character of the Pentateuch vindicated.' Crown 8vo. 4s. 6d.

Westcott.—Works by BROOKE FOSS WESTCOTT, D.D., Regius Professor of Divinity in the University of Cambridge; Canon of Peterborough:

The London Quarterly, speaking of Dr. Westcott, says—"To a learning and accuracy which command respect and confidence, he unites what are not always to be found in union with these qualities, the no less valuable faculties of lucid arrangement and graceful and facile expression."

AN INTRODUCTION TO THE STUDY OF THE GOSPELS. Sixth Edition. Crown 8vo. 10s. 6d.

The author's chief object in this work has been to shew that there is a true mean between the idea of a formal harmonization of the Gospels and the abandonment of their absolute truth. After an Introduction on the General Effects of the course of Modern Philosophy on the popular views of Christianity, he proceeds to determine in what way the principles therein indicated may be applied to the study of the Gospels.

WESTCOTT (Dr.)—continued.

A GENERAL SURVEY OF THE HISTORY OF THE CANON OF THE NEW TESTAMENT during the First Four Centuries. Fifth Edition, revised, with a Preface on 'Supernatural Religion.' Crown 8vo. 10s. 6d.

The object of this treatise is to deal with the New Testament as a whole, and that on purely historical grounds. The separate books of which it is composed are considered not individually, but as claiming to be parts of the apostolic heritage of Christians. "The treatise," says the British Quarterly, "is a scholarly performance, learned, dispassionate, discriminating, worthy of his subject and of the present state of Christian literature in relation to it."

THE BIBLE IN THE CHURCH. A Popular Account of the Collection and Reception of the Holy Scriptures in the Christian Churches. Seventh Edition. 18mo. 4s. 6d.

A GENERAL VIEW OF THE HISTORY OF THE ENGLISH BIBLE. Second Edition. Crown 8vo. 10s. 6d.

The Pall Mall Gazette calls the work "A brief, scholarly, and, to a great extent, an original contribution to theological literature."

THE CHRISTIAN LIFE, MANIFOLD AND ONE. Six Sermons preached in Peterborough Cathedral. Crown 8vo. 2s. 6d.

THE GOSPEL OF THE RESURRECTION. Thoughts on its Relation to Reason and History. Fourth Edition, revised. Crown 8vo. 6s.

The present Essay is an endeavour to consider some of the elementary truths of Christianity, as a miraculous Revelation, from the side of History and Reason. The author endeavours to shew that a devout belief in the Life of Christ is quite compatible with a broad view of the course of human progress and a frank trust in the laws of our own minds. In the third edition the author has carefully reconsidered the whole argument, and by the help of several kind critics has been enabled to correct some faults and to remove some ambiguities, which had been overlooked before.

ON THE RELIGIOUS OFFICE OF THE UNIVERSITIES. Crown 8vo. 4s. 6d.

. . . . . "There is wisdom, and truth, and thought enough, and a harmony and mutual connection running through them all, which makes the collection of more real value than many an ambitious treatise."—Literary Churchman.

WESTCOTT (Dr.)—continued.

THE REVELATION OF THE RISEN LORD. Crown
8vo. 6s.

Westcott—Hort.—THE NEW TESTAMENT IN THE ORIGINAL GREEK. The Text Revised by B. F. WESTCOTT, D.D., Regius Professor of Divinity, Canon of Peterborough, and F. J. A. HORT, D.D., Hulsean Professor of Divinity, Fellow of Emmanuel College, Cambridge: late Fellows of Trinity College, Cambridge. 2 vols. Crown 8vo. 10s. 6d. each.

Vol. I. TEXT. Vol. II. INTRODUCTION and APPENDIX.

"The Greek Testament as printed by the two Professors must in future rank as one of the highest critical authorities amongst English scholars."—Guardian.

"It is probably the most important contribution to Biblical learning in our generation."—Saturday Review.

"The object in view is to present the original words of the New Testament as nearly as they can be determined at the present time, to arrive at the texts of the autographs themselves so far as it is possible to obtain it by the help of existing materials. . . . We attach much excellence to this manual edition of the Greek Testament, because it is the best contribution which England has made in modern times towards the production of a pure text. . . . It bears on its face evidences of calm judgment and commendable candour. The student may avail himself of its aid with much confidence. The Introduction and Appendix specially deserve minute attention."—The Athenæum.

Wilkins.—THE LIGHT OF THE WORLD. An Essay, by A. S. WILKINS, M.A., Professor of Latin in Owens College, Manchester. Second Edition. Crown 8vo. 3s. 6d.

"It would be difficult to praise too highly the spirit, the burden, the conclusions, or the scholarly finish of this beautiful Essay."—British Quarterly Review.

Wilson.—THE BIBLE STUDENT'S GUIDE TO THE MORE CORRECT UNDERSTANDING of the ENGLISH TRANSLATION OF THE OLD TESTAMENT, by Reference to the Original Hebrew. By WILLIAM WILSON, D.D., Canon of Winchester. Second Edition, carefully revised. 4to. 25s.

The author believes that the present work is the nearest approach to a complete Concordance of every word in the original that has yet been made; and as a Concordance it may be found of great use to the Bible student, while at the same time it serves the important object of furnishing the means of comparing synonymous words and of eliciting their precise and distinctive meaning. The knowledge of the Hebrew language is not absolutely necessary to the profitable use of the work.

Worship (The) of God and Fellowship among Men. Sermons on Public Worship. By Professor MAURICE, and others. Fcap. 8vo. 3s. 6d.

Yonge (Charlotte M.)—Works by CHARLOTTE M. YONGE, Author of 'The Heir of Redclyffe':

SCRIPTURE READINGS FOR SCHOOLS AND FAMILIES. 5 vols. Globe 8vo. 1s. 6d. With Comments, 3s. 6d. each.

FIRST SERIES. Genesis to Deuteronomy.

SECOND SERIES. From Joshua to Solomon.

THIRD SERIES. The Kings and Prophets.

FOURTH SERIES. The Gospel Times.

FIFTH SERIES. Apostolic Times.

Actual need has led the author to endeavour to prepare a reading book convenient for study with children, containing the very words of the Bible, with only a few expedient omissions, and arranged in Lessons of such length as by experience she has found to suit with children's ordinary power of accurate attentive interest. The verse form has been retained because of its convenience for children reading in class, and as more resembling their Bibles; but the poetical portions have been given in their lines. Professor Huxley at a meeting of the London School-board, particularly mentioned the Selection made by Miss Yonge, as an example of how selections might be made for School reading. "Her Comments are models of their kind."—Literary Churchman.

THE PUPILS OF ST. JOHN THE DIVINE. New Edition. Crown 8vo. 6s.

"Young and old will be equally refreshed and taught by these pages, in which nothing is dull, and nothing is far-fetched."—Churchman.

PIONEERS AND FOUNDERS; or, Recent Workers in the Mission Field. With Frontispiece and Vignette Portrait of Bishop HEBER. Crown 8vo. 6s.

The missionaries whose biographies are here given, are—John Eliot, the Apostle of the Red Indians; David Brainerd, the Enthusiast; Christian F. Schwartz, the Councillor of Tanjore; Henry Martyn, the Scholar-Missionary; William Carey and Joshua Marshman, the Serampore Missionaries; the Judson Family; the Bishops of Calcutta—Thomas Middleton, Reginald Heber, Daniel Wilson; Samuel Marsden, the Australian Chaplain and Friend of the Maori; John Williams, the Martyr of Erromango; Allen Gardener, the Sailor Martyr; Charles Frederick Mackenzie, the Martyr of Zambesi.

THE "BOOK OF PRAISE" HYMNAL,

COMPILED AND ARRANGED BY

LORD SELBORNE.

In the following four forms:—

- A. Beautifully printed in Royal 32mo., limp cloth, price 6d.
- B. „ „ Small 18mo., larger type, cloth limp, 1s.
- C. Same edition on fine paper, cloth, 1s. 6d.

Also an edition with Music, selected, harmonized, and composed by JOHN HULLAH, in square 18mo., cloth, 3s. 6d.

The large acceptance which has been given to "The Book of Praise" by all classes of Christian people encourages the Publishers in entertaining the hope that this Hymnal, which is mainly selected from it, may be extensively used in Congregations, and in some degree at least meet the desires of those who seek uniformity in common worship as a means towards that unity which pious souls yearn after, and which our Lord prayed for in behalf of his Church. "The office of a hymn is not to teach controversial Theology, but to give the voice of song to practical religion. No doubt, to do this, it must embody sound doctrine; but it ought to do so, not after the manner of the schools, but with the breadth, freedom, and simplicity of the Fountain-head." On this principle has Sir R. Palmer proceeded in the preparation of this book.

The arrangement adopted is the following:—

PART I. consists of Hymns arranged according to the subjects of the Creed—"God the Creator," "Christ Incarnate," "Christ Crucified," "Christ Risen," "Christ Ascended," "Christ's Kingdom and Judgment," etc.

PART II. comprises Hymns arranged according to the subjects of the Lord's Prayer.

PART III. Hymns for natural and sacred seasons.

There are 320 Hymns in all.

LIBRARY OF CONGRESS

0 029 789 405 5